

Berrien Investors Set To Bid For Dog Track

BY LARRY MacINTYRE

Sheridan Cook of Niles said yesterday he is a member of a group of investors ready to apply for a license to operate a dog racing track in Berrien county if the sport becomes legal in Michigan.

The group's plans include construction of a $10 million track that would employ 400 to 500 people. Cook briefly outlined the plans to The Herald-Palladium after a public hearing on a dog racing bill now being considered by the state legislature.

The hearing was held at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn and was presided over by State Sen. Earl Nelson (D-Lansing), sponsor of the bill. Sen. Charles O. Zollar (R-Benton Harbor), a co-sponsor of the bill, and Rep. Ray Mittan (R-Niles) were also present.

Nelson is chairman of a three-member subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations committee studying the possibility of legalizing greyhound racing in Michigan.

Of 10 people who testified on the dog racing proposal, six said they were in favor of it, three were opposed and one suggested amending it to give local governments a greater share of the tax on parimutuel betting.

Cook did not speak during the hearing, but he answered reporter's questions afterwards. Cook, 69, served as a Democratic Niles city supervisor on the Berrien county board of supervisors continuously from 1937 to 1972.

He said he would not reveal the identities of other investors in his group without their permission.

However, he said he feels his group will have a good chance of getting license approval because the bill states that the racing commissioner shall give preference to applications from corporations organized in the state and owned by residents.

He said the track would be located somewhere in Berrien county within a mile or two of I-94. "We want that traffic out of Indiana and Illinois."

Cook said the investment group will soon file articles of incorporation and has already chosen James "Sonny" Ellis of Dearborn to develop and operate the track.

Ellis attended the hearing with Cook. They said financing is available for a $10 million track that would employ 400 to 500 people.

Ellis said he has been involved in dog racing activities for more than 40 years. "My daddy built the Tampa (Fla.) track in 1931," he said.

The bill sets a limit of 10 on the number of dog racing licenses that can be issued in the state. Tracks would have to be located more than 50 miles apart and racing dates would be set by the man appointed dog racing commissioner.

Applications for track licenses would be subject to the approval of the governing bodies of the counties and communities in which the track would be located as well as to the racing commissioner.

The application could also be put up for a public vote if five per cent of the registered voters

Marijuana, Crime Linked In Berrien Probation Survey

Parole Agent Opposes Carter 'Pot' Plan

BY LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

A state parole and probation agent for Berrien Circuit court says an informal survey he has been making for the past two years shows that marijuana use is frequently linked to the commission of serious crimes.

"I'm not saying marijuana causes crime," said Lester Knickerbocker, a 12-year veteran of the county parole and probation department.

However, of 47 convicted burglars Knickerbocker has talked to in the past two years, 16 of them said they were either high on drugs or alcohol when they committed their crimes or they planned on getting high afterwards.

Marijuana was by far the most frequently used substance, Knickerbocker said. Heroin and alcohol were used to a lesser extent, he said.

The burglars were part of a caseload of over 250 convicted felons he has worked with from July, 1975, to June, 1977.

He said burglars and all criminals have certain personality traits in common, and one of them is that they are not satisfied with the world the way it is so they use mind-altering substances to change their view of it.

In Berrien county, the most frequently used substance is marijuana, Knickerbocker said. He said marijuana also tends to reduce initiative and motivation among regular users. After a while crime — particularly burglary — seems like an easier way to live than working.

"It's a lot easier to rip off an hour or two a day than it is to work eight or 10 hours a day," Knickerbocker said.

Knickerbocker said the informal and admittedly unscientific survey is just one reason why he believes President Jimmy Carter's proposal to decriminalize marijuana is ill-advised.

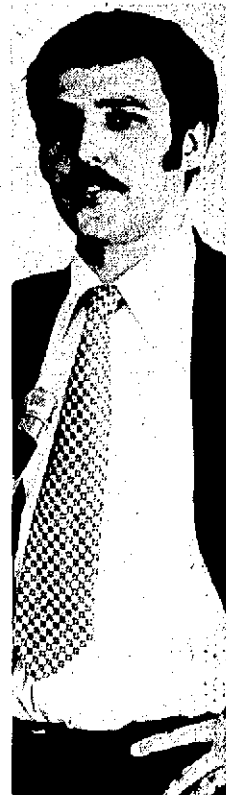

The President announced last week that he will seek to reduce federal penalties for marijuana use to the level of a traffic ticket. The decriminalization of personal use of marijuana would be tied to a crackdown on large-scale drug dealers.

Knickerbocker said he is philosophically opposed to decriminalizing anything that has not been studied thoroughly. No one knows what the long-term effects of marijuana use really are, he added.

"There are only two things we know for certain," he continued. "Marijuana lowers inhibitions and attacks initiative."

He said studies have shown that a regular user of marijuana is less likely to form long-range personal or vocational goals and is even more unlikely to go about achieving those goals.

Knickerbocker said he believes his own survey shows

R. Duck, This Is Henry K.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — It's late at night and you're fiddling with the knobs on your ham radio. Suddenly, you tune in Henry Kissinger.

The accent on the airwaves belongs to Ed Bolton, unemployed night club entertainer, singing-dog trainer, short wave radio enthusiast and Kissinger impersonator.

Bolton's Kissinger is so convincing that ham operators around the country have called their local newspapers to say they've chatted with the former secretary of state.

"My Kissinger is better than Rich Little's. And he's a millionaire and I'm sitting here counting my change. There has got to be something wrong," Bolton lamented.

Besides mimicking world leaders (Adolf Hitler and Franklin D. Roosevelt included), he says he can impersonate the whole Amos 'n Andy cast, sing operatic solos and entertain "in the style of Robert Goulet."

The 46-year-old Bolton says he's trying to sell his Kissinger routine to the revived "Laugh-In" television show — as soon as he can raise the money for a flight to Hollywood.

OPPONENTS: Speaking against dog racing and parimutuel betting were (left to right) Robert C. Triplett, New Buffalo; Mrs. John Valentiejus, New Buffalo; and Rev. Arnold Bolin executive director of Berrien County Council of Churches. Rev. Bolin also is a Benton Harbor city commissioner. He objected on moral grounds. Mrs. Valentiejus and Triplett said it could have detrimental effect on community.

California Lobbying Is Taxing

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The 700 professional lobbyists in the California Capitol might be better off today if they had hired a lobbyist of their own down at city hall. It seems that while the lobbyists were looking out for the interests of their clients and employers with the state legislature, an ordinance was enacted by the City Council imposing a business tax on lobbyists. The first notices, asking for annual fees of $12 to $120 each, arrived in the mail Tuesday. "It's a ripoff," complained lobbyist Larry Tabor of the Cannery League of California. What's worse for the lobbyists is that the proposal has been pending for three years, and none of them had noticed.

Market Robbed; Pair Arrested

Benton township police said two young men were taken into custody after a $200 robbery was reported at Mike's Market, 1186 Paw Paw, avenue, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Patricia Callender, identified by police as store owner, told officers two men with pistols entered the store and forced her to give them money from the cash register.

The handoffs escaped in a car that appeared to have a third person in it, according to the report filed with police.

Det. Robert Shepherdson reported police later received a tip and arrested James William Hudson, 19, and Rodney Glenn Robinson, 18, both of Benton Heights. They were lodged in the county jail, and Shepherdson said police would seek authorization of armed robbery charges this morning from the prosecutor's office.

Shepherdson said Hudson was taken into custody at 8:30 p.m. outside a Benton Heights bar, and Robinson was taken into custody at 3:48 a.m. today at his home on Irving drive.

Shepherdson said two .22 caliber pistols and a car were seized during the investigation, and a third person was being sought.

Carter Seeks Reshuffle Of Welfare Costs

Branding the present welfare system as being anti-work and anti-family, President Carter is calling for Congressional legislation to make a clean break with the past.

His timetable for the new plan to be fully implemented is fiscal 1981.

The major components in the Carter plan are borrowed from an idea advanced by Nixon and a program sponsored experimentally by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and some state welfare agencies which never advanced too far.

A work benefit and income support method would replace ADC and the Agriculture Department's food stamps.

The Nixon version was styled, the negative income tax, another phrase for the government paying a cash grant measured by the number of recipients in a family group to be assisted.

The theory never moved beyond the hypothetical stage because Nixon did not press Congress to accept it.

Carter's version is substantially the same approach. It varies primarily in the distribution's arithmetic.

Tied to the cash grant would be the obligation for able-bodied welfare clients to accept a job, either in the private sector or in a public works development.

The work requirement would not apply to the aged, the blind and the disabled who would be given a cash grant slightly higher than they now collect through HEW's complicated formulae.

Backing up the direct financial outlay would be an increase in the earned income tax credit.

A major change requested by Carter is a reduction in the states' welfare costs. He envisions a starting decline of 10 per cent in the first year and more substantial drops thereafter provided the states meet the minimal requirement of a percentage contribution to their individual welfare loads.

The price tag to Uncle Sam in the first full year of operation is $30.7 billion or 9 per cent more than what current welfare programs cost.

Whether Carter is suggesting a breakthrough or pouring old wine in new bottles depends upon the accounting principles by which his thought is tested.

He is the first President to state in a positive tone that the handout should be the last resort for people who can work if they are of a mind to do so. In presenting the plan's outline in a televised press conference last Saturday, Carter alluded to the need for clearing the ADC's image with the public as being a shiftless group of people clamoring for more and more benefits.

Insofar as reducing the cost of welfare and Uncle Sam's role in the welfare process, there is at best merely a theoretical change for the better.

If a sizeable ratio of today's welfare recipients can be transformed into self sustaining wage earners, costs will go down and the federal treasury may benefit by increased income tax receipts.

If, however, it flies no higher than the WIN (work incentive) movement tried a few years ago in Michigan, then the only alteration is to take ADC out of the bureaucratic alphabetical soup can.

Possibly the best success to look for at this time is Carter's allusion to simplifying the welfare regulations and to tighten up on the maze of regulations which are man-made for devious minds to extract the double dip and the triple dip.

Carter is taking a step rather than a great leap forward.

When someone will venture the latter is beyond the crystal balls now on the market.

Basically, the U.S. will never bring welfare to manageable proportions until the philosophy of welfare being an entitlement instead of a privilege is eliminated.

BENTON SALARY VOTE IS AUG. 16

Editor: Benton township voters will have the opportunity to vote on the resolution that established the compensation commission on 8-16-77. If they object to having the compensation commission set the salaries of our elected officials, they should vote Yes on the ballot on 8-16-77. The ballot is worded so that a No vote would in fact continue the compensation commission, which denies Benton township voters the right to approve salary increases of elected officials. So remember voters, a Yes vote on 8-16-77 will repeal the ordinance that established the compensation commission. Here's hoping for a good voter turnout on 8-16-77.

GOVERNMENT FORCE FEEDS ITS 'GEESE'

Editor: Enough is enough is enough! How much longer are we going to accept the misguided and arrogant notion that elected or appointed public officials can or have the right to save us from our own folly and as they suggest, our self-destruction! I allude to the numerous laws and regulations, federal, state as well as local, that deny you and me the choice that we are entitled to make for ourselves.

Isn't it about time we blow the whistle on the so-called experts whose strange logic would foist the bizarre rationale upon the American people that laetrile, succharin, etc., etc., must be banned because we don't know what is good for us, while at the same time legalize marijuana and in many instances wink at illegal use of drugs?

To follow another vein of absurdity, certainly the numerous ridiculous rules and regulations promulgated and enforced by the so-called experts in the countless government agencies has reached a new high in recent years. "Because it is good for you" is the guise that is used to arbitrarily ram down our collective throats, that which often is, unwanted, unnecessary and undemocratic, not unlike the age-old practice of force feeding geese. The recent examples making air bags mandatory on autos, requiring crash helmets for motorbike riders, etc. (while perhaps in themselves excellent ideas and worthy of your and my consideration) do not provide for your inherent right to freedom of choice.

Can't they understand that you and I have a greater vested interest in what happens to us? It would be a rare fool that wouldn't value his life and protect it. Of course there must be laws and regulations to prevent foulplay, and inconsiderate people trampling on the rights of others, but let's get off the backs of those who seek only "to live and let live" and be permitted without government harassment to exercise their prerogative of making decisions which affect nobody's life but their own.

It was a wise sage who once said: "It is better to lose one's life than to find it without freedom and dignity." How tragic it would be if the human rights we demand for all people in other parts of the world were lost here at home.

When it is out, the way will be clear for continuation of the village's $10,000 street widening project, started in mid-June. Removal of the dozen or so 150 to 200-year-old maple trees, landmarks along the village's main street since its founding, was not decided upon without controversy. Most of the townspeople, however, at a public meeting agreed that the trees had to go, according to Clerk Paul Loeffler.

Independence Is Key To Success

WASHINGTON — Common Cause this month will celebrate its seventh anniversary — an appropriate occasion to recount a series of previously unpublished events which preceded its founding in 1970 and deeply influenced the organization ever since that time.

Throughout the 1970s, Common Cause has had a profound influence — probably more than any other single institution — in bringing about significant change in the way the people's business is conducted in Washington.

The key to the organization's success has been its independence from the countless interest groups — notably big business, big labor and the major foundations — whose ubiquitous if not insidious influence affects all of our daily lives.

The central figure in Common Cause's relationship with those interest groups was John W. Gardner, the organization's founder and its chairman until his retirement earlier this year.

In mid-1968, Gardner became chairman of the National Urban Coalition, formed during the previous summer as a direct result of the racial violence spawned in many of the nation's major cities. That group's "governing board" was composed of the familiar "distinguished" leaders from business, labor, government and civic groups.

The Urban Coalition's avowed purpose was to forestall future rioting. As a result, it was, in the words of one observer, "born with a silver spoon in its mouth" because of the generosity of those who feared they and their institutions would be the victims of further rioting and burning.

Tax-deductible contributions came, pouring in from the Rockefeller, Sloan and Kellogg foundations; from the AFL-CIO and many of its constituent unions; from the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.,

American Can Co. and Bethlehem Steel Co.

The National Urban Coalition was a "safe" and non-controversial organization, operating with a vague mandate. But the same couldn't be said for its companion group, the Urban Coalition Action Council, independently chartered to lobby for specific reforms.

Because contributions to the Action Council weren't tax-deductible and because its causes were controversial, the lobbying group received far less financial support from wealthy institutions.

The Action Council campaigned against the anti-ballistic missile, arguing that the billions of dollars earmarked for that weapons system should instead be spent on domestic needs. That incurred the wrath of both hawkish AFL-CIO President George Meany and Chase Manhattan Bank Chairman David Rockefeller, whose family had contributed tens of thousands of dollars to the Action Council.

The AFL-CIO finally cut off all financial support to the Action Council after it announced support for the "Philadelphia Plan" requiring labor unions to open apprenticeship training programs to sizeable numbers of blacks and members of other minority groups.

Supporters from the business community became similarly alienated when the Action Council lobbied against Senate confirmation of then-President Nixon's nomination of G. Harold Carswell to a seat on the Supreme Court and pressed hard for an end to the war in Vietnam.

Gardner never publicly discussed those defections, but as the plans for Common Cause took shape, the Action Council experience demonstrated to him that a "beat-rocking" organization could not count on support or leadership from those whose first priority was the maintenance of their own power and influence.

Adams' Air Bag Gap Is Showing

WASHINGTON — When Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams announced his support for mandatory air bags he failed to mention an unpublished survey which concluded that there is not enough data to estimate the bags' usefulness.

Adams cited studies which he claimed showed air bags could save 10,000 lives each year. The report he suppressed, however, showed no such thing. Conducted by Economics and Science Planning, Inc., of Washington for Adams' department and submitted in May, the study noted:

"Based on currently available field data, one must conclude that the air bag is less effective in mitigating fatalities than current voluntary usage of lap and lap-shoulder harnesses. However, this conclusion is uncertain due to lack of data concerning the air-bag equipped fleet."

Elsewhere the report refers to "the poor showing of the air bag in injury accidents."

It appears that Adams responded more to Ralph Nader, who has long claimed fantastic safety advantages for air bags, than to his own department statistics.

Those who care about how the terribly rich and able do things will be interested to learn that the center of Washington's elite society night life, reportedly pays a rent of between $60,000-66,000 a year. The club is located in fashionable Georgetown, and insiders say all commercial rent in the area is similarly astronomical.

Reggie is considering opening a club here to compete with Pisces; at those rentals, the drinks won't come cheap.

When the League of Women Voters sponsored the presidential debates last year, it got stuck with all the bills. So now the Federal Election Commission is considering a plea from the League to change its rules to allow corporate contributions to underwrite any future debates, making a technical exception to the laws which forbid corporate giving for the purpose of influencing a Federal election.

Rep. Clement Zahlocki (D-Wis.), chairman of the House International Relations Committee, makes his own sausage and dill pickles.

Abigail McCarthy, legally separated wife of presidential gadfly Eugene McCarthy, is already at work on a second book, to deal with the changing role of women and the growth of the equal rights movement. Her first book, "Circles," won good critical reviews when it came out earlier this summer.

Move Timing

A 'Coincidence'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The removal of Richard M. Nixon's tapes and papers from the White House complex on the third anniversary of his resignation as president was just a coincidence, the national archivist says.

"We don't keep up with things like that," said Dr. James B. Rhoads, when asked about the government's transfer of the Nixon administration records from the Executive Office Building to the National Archives on Tuesday.

Hospital Mixup Was Avoidable

About the only event which could have made the tragic switch in oxygen and nitrous oxide gas lines at Suburban General Hospital in Norristown, Pa., even worse was the discovery that the same mistake had been made in other hospitals.

Sure enough, it has. Within days of the Norristown revelation at least four other cases of recent vintage surfaced — two more in Pennsylvania, one in Texas and one in Ontario, Canada.

It may be months before doctors are able to pinpoint how many deaths likely resulted from the mixup at Suburban General, and even longer for damage suits (already being filed) to be decided. But already the chain of events which began with the announcement of a seven months' mistake is pushing toward remedial action to prevent such inexcusable mistakes in the future.

Compounding tragedies of this type is the fact they are so easily prevented. Simple testing precautions in every hospital — especially in new buildings — should be standard procedure, and probably will become standard in many hospitals as a result of this publicity.

Even more fundamental is the renewed cry by those in the industry who long have held that different gas lines in hospitals should have different standard diameters, so it would be obvious at sight which is which. The fallacy of leaving something as important as this to chance once again has been proven with tragic consequences.

Berrien Child Support Collections Soaring

Friend Of Court Nets $2.8 Million In First Six Months Of 1977

GEORGE WESTFIELD
Friend of the court

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien Friend of the Court George Westfield has released a semi-annual report showing his office has collected $3,005,133 the first six months of 1977 with more than $2.8 million of the total going for child support.

Westfield compared the figure to 1971, when $2.3 million was collected during the entire year. That year marked the beginning of a concentrated effort by the friend of the court's office for enforcement of child support for children on public assistance.

Westfield said the half-year figures reflect collections of more than $500,000 per month, and predicted total collections by the end of the year to be nearly $6 million.

Total collections in 1976 were $5.4 million, Westfield added.

The report says Berrien has 7,289 active cases involving more than 17,500 children. The cases include 3,448 support cases not involving ADC, and 2,814 cases with ADC. Another 96 cases are alimony accounts.

The report notes the average amount of court-ordered support for each non-ADC case is $36.12 per week, with $22.23 weekly support for ADC cases. Alimony accounts average $143.67 per week.

Westfield said his office received $2,836,395 in support payments in the first six months of the year, $102,314 in alimony payments, $538 in court-ordered fees for doctors' services and another $16,040 for hospital care. Handling fees ($9 every six months per case) accounted for $44,327, and the office received $4,731 in miscellaneous payments.

The collection totals reflect the cooperation of several agencies involved, Westfield said — the judiciary, Michigan Department of Social Services, prosecutor's office, sheriff's department, county clerk's office, and the friend of the court's office.

Westfield said that during the six-month period, 648 new divorce and support complaints were filed, there were 488 orders to show cause hearings, and 309 divorces granted. Circuit judges and probate judges (while acting as circuit judges) heard 201 motions for temporary support and custody, 24 paternity suits, and 54 URESA (Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement Support Act) cases, when the parent resides in a different state from the children.

Westfield also said there were 589 writs and bench warrants issued for parents to appear in court for failure to pay support.

The friend of the court reported a new bonding system, which started in October, 1976, has produced $7,611 through June. The money from the bond goes directly to the dependants without any costs being deducted, such as in normal bonding procedures where a percentage goes to the bondsman.

The report says the county received $120,615 in incentive payments from the federal government during the first six months of 1977, based on collections of $732,529 from parents whose children are on ADC. The federal government pays the county 25 per cent of whatever is collected on ADC accounts, which is put into the county's general fund.

Deadbeat Dads Get Jail Stay

Two fathers received jail sentences this week from Berrien Circuit court judges for failing to pay child support, and another father was given a suspended sentence by paying $200 toward an arrearage.

Carl Blackburn, of Buchanan, was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Zee S. Barkholz for $7,658 arrears for three children not on ADC. Chief Investigator Edward Pasirick of the Berrien friend of the court's office reported Blackburn was also placed on two years probation.

Pasirick said Blackburn was ordered to find work and pay $54 weekly support and $10 per week on his arrears within 30 days of his release from jail or spend 90 more days behind bars. Blackburn has made two support payments since October, 1975, according to Pasirick.

In cases before Judge Chester J. Byrns, Pasirick reported: Robert Casey, of 2819 Detroit road, Niles, was placed on two years probation and sentenced to 10 weekends in jail for $1,332 arrears for three children on ADC. The sentence was suspended when Casey paid $200, but Byrns warned that if a payment is missed, Casey is to spend the following weekend in jail.

The judge also ordered a wage assignment of $45 weekly support plus $10 per week on the arrearage. Barry D. Davis, of 160 Victory street, Buchanan, was ordered to begin a two-year probation with 30 days in jail for $594 arrears for one ADC child. Davis was told to find work within 30 days of his release from jail and sign a wage assignment based on his earnings or report back to jail for 10 more days.

Berrien Planners Give Marina Okay

The Berrien county planning commission yesterday gave its approval to a project plan for a proposed $1.5 million marina on the St. Joseph river provided the developers get assurances from three governmental units.

The approval is one of the required steps in a lengthy process before tax exempt revenue bonds can be sold to finance a majority of the project.

The planning commission gave its approval and recommended the county board concur if three provisions are met. Planners said they wanted assurances that the state Department of Natural Resources and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will approve the relocation of Hog creek and issue permits for relocation.

The commission also asked for assurance that the City of Benton Harbor will approve a driveway opening necessary to service the property. The proposed 240-slip Anchor-In marina would be located on the east side of the river between Empire avenue and May Street. The location is in St. Joseph township, but access would be from streets in Benton Harbor. St. Joseph township has already approved the project plan as part of the process required for the county's Economic Development Corporation to develop the bonds. The bonds would be paid off by the developers.

The original plan drew an objection when Roger Huelsberg, of 560 West May street, claimed the marina would block his access to the river via Hog creek. The new plan, acceptable to Huelsberg, call for rerouting the creek upstream around the end of the proposed marina, creating a channel on both marina property and Huelsberg's land.

County planners noted the project is in accordance with the county's development and economic development plans. Assistant Planning Director Brian Sott said that commission approval does not approve the project, but says the information required under the bond act has been provided by developers.

Commissioners yesterday also heard a report on the status of solid waste disposal programs in the county from Robert Barnes, director of the board of public works. Commissioners took no action on the report but did recommend to the county board of commissioners that a $225,000 revolving fund established a few years ago remain earmarked for solid waste land acquisition.

The commission made no recommendation, but restated its position against spot zoning. In reviewing a recommendation from the St. Joseph township planning commission to the township board, Chickhaven restaurant, at 2675 Niles avenue, had requested a zoning change to commercial zoning under its special use permit to expand its dining area and parking lot.

The commission concurred with a recommendation by the Benton township planning commission to its township board of trustees that a rezoning request from residential to commercial be approved for Mr. and Mrs. Convent Jackson. They seek rezoning to build a restaurant and gift and beauty shop at the corner of Martin Luther King drive and Wabash avenue.

BH Supervisors Write-Ins Invalid

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

The Berrien county board of canvassers has ruled out three people who received write-in votes for city supervisor in the Benton Harbor city primary election last week because they did not receive enough votes.

Berrien Clerk Forrest Kesterke said the Michigan elections code requires that a candidate for nomination in a primary election must receive at least 10 votes in order to qualify as a candidate. No one got more than three write-ins for supervisor.

The county board of canvassers Monday certified the results of the Aug. 2 primary election showing no changes in the results or the number of votes cast for the four people who won nominations to run for two commissioner-at-large seats in the Nov. 8 general election.

The four incumbents Arnold

Bolin and Mildred Wells, former Commissioner Carl Brown and political newcomer Audrey Reed, received the highest number of votes in a field of eight in the only in the contests in the primary.

No candidates had filed for the four city ward supervisor posts and no names were on the ballot. Ralph Lhotka got three write-in votes, and William Parks and Roy Rosier each received one vote. Supervisors sit on the board of review.

The elimination of the write-in candidates means no names for ward supervisors will be on the Nov. 8 general election ballot and the general election will again be a write-in race. However, Kesterke said the 10-vote minimum required for primary elections does not apply to general elections and a candidate can win with only one write-in vote.

The certified results were identical with unofficial returns that showed Bolin received the most votes for commissioner-at-large with a total of 312, followed by Mrs. Wells, with 190 votes. Brown with 121, and Mrs. Reed, 80.

Eliminated were James Daffey, who received 63 votes; Jeanie Hager, with 42 votes; Genette Byrd, with 10, and LaVerne Williams, 11.

The county board of canvassers also confirmed an error in tallying the primary vote for commissioner-at-large.

The error, which had no effect on the final outcome of the election, occurred when workers at the first precinct in the Fourth Ward misread the totals from the voting machine, according to Kesterke.

Kesterke said Mrs. Williams erroneously was credited with seven votes she didn't get in the precinct. As a result her official total dropped from 18 to 11.

Mrs. Byrd and Mrs. Williams both announced before the election they had withdrawn as active candidates.

MUSTERING LEGIONNAIRES: The fall conference of the Michigan Department of American Legion is expected to attract 1,500 to 2,000 legionnaires, auxiliary members and spouses to the Twin Cities Sept. 23, 24, 25, according to Dan Flaugh, commander of Benton Harbor Legion Post 105; the host. Planning conference are from left: Flaugh, Vernon L. Henrichs, of Caro, state commander, and Mrs. Imogene Cowgill, of Morenci, state auxiliary president. ## STATE TOO BUSY TO REVIEW IT?

Lincoln's Sewer Bid Hits Snag

By AL AREND
Staff Writer

Lincoln township's bid for state and federal funding for a $9.4 million sewer project has hit a snag in Lansing's bureaucratic jungle.

A letter from the state's Water Quality division informed the township that state reviewing agencies might not have time to process the application by an Oct. 1 deadline.

If the deadline is missed, funding would not be available in the 1977-78 fiscal year.

The situation was outlined last night during a regular meeting of the township board. Supervisor Bernice Tretheway said the township had already contacted State Rep. Harry Gast, Jr., (R-St. Joseph), and asked for help. Gast is a former Lincoln township supervisor.

Mrs. Tretheway said a meeting has been scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 11, at 1 p.m., in Gast's office regarding the situation. Representatives of the state reviewing agencies are to be present.

Mrs. Tretheway said it was "extremely discouraging" to try and meet all the requirements for funding and then learn the township could miss the deadline because of a heavy work load in Lansing.

Involved in the application is a bid for funds to pay for about half the total cost. The system would serve areas in the township where township water is already provided.

Mrs. Tretheway thanked residents in the proposed sewer service area for a prompt response to a questionnaire required for the application. She said 2,753 were sent out and about 60 per cent were returned.

Negative response to the questionnaire was very high, according to Mrs. Tretheway, with only about 60 questionnaires of the 1,585 returned indicating they did not need a public sewer.

In other areas, the board discussed several problems relating to dying trees in the township.

The board instructed Clerk Christine Welch to take whatever steps necessary in finding out what is causing the die off of soft maple trees in the township's cemetery. Some 31 trees had to be cut down and now another 19 have been lost.

Donald Necas, 4901 Cleveland avenue, told the board that a large maple tree on his property was poisoned with a herbicide this year.

In a letter he wrote to residents along Cleveland avenue between Marquette Woods and Glenford roads, Necas said "It is too bad that our concerns can seemingly be met with such a sinister and immature response by some elements of the community."

Necas was the leader of a drive to keep the county road commission and township from removing large trees along that stretch of Cleveland in a proposed road improvement project.

Gerald Wahl, township treasurer, said he took offense to Necas' statement if Necas was hinting that anyone on the township board in anyway had something to do with the demise of the tree.

Necas said he wasn't pointing a finger at anyone, but he knows his tree was poisoned. He said samples of leaves, branches, bark, and soil from around the tree were sent to Michigan State University's plant pathology laboratory, and they confirmed the tree had been poisoned by a her-

Preserve Delicious Peaches To Serve Summer And Winter

In all too short a time, the season for fresh peaches will be over. Almost immediately, the season for fresh-frozen peaches will begin.

With a little planning, simple preparation and a big freezer, you can extend your summer "fresh" peach season for a delicious eight or nine months.

If fresh peaches aren't quite ripe when purchased, they will ripen quickly at home when kept at room temperature for a day or two. The skin of ripe peaches is golden in color, with or without the rosy bluish some varieties have. Ripe peaches should be firm, but give lightly to gentle palm pressure. That's when the texture and flavor are best.

There are so many good ways to use fresh-frozen peaches, you will want to freeze just as many as space allows. To be most useful, cut some in halves for garnishes, desserts and salads; some in quarters or slices for pies, puddings and fruit composites. An ascorbic acid mixture brightens and fresh-looking.

When you are planning your work and lining up the equipment you are going to need, do keep in mind that it is best to peel and cut up only the amount of peaches you can freeze in 24 hours.

Stretch the preparation over two or more days. If necessary to insure that your winter peaches will be just as tempting as the summer fruit.

"FRESH" FROZEN PEACHES

One cup sugar
One tablespoon ascorbic acid mixture

Three and one-half pounds fresh peaches (about 10 medium)

In large bowl, mix sugar and ascorbic acid mixture thoroughly. If desired, peel peaches; dip in boiling water for 30 seconds; with slotted spoon transfer to cold. Halve and skin off skins. Toss in sugar mixture; then put at once into freezer-proof pint containers, or plastic freezer bags (allow six peach halves per pint). Cover or twist closed. Freeze. Makes three pints.

Variation: Toss peaches in sugar mixture; spread on cookie sheets to freeze. When frozen, transfer to freezer containers.

FRESHEST PEACH ICE CREAM

One pint "Fresh" Frozen Peaches (recipe above)

One-half cup whipping cream

One egg

Two drops almond extract (optional)

Remove frozen peach halves from container; thaw 15 minutes. Separate halves; cut into large chunks, reserving sugar syrup. Put cream, egg and extract into blender. With motor on high, gradually add peaches and syrup. Whirl smooth, stopping motor to stir down, if necessary. Spoon into dessert glasses and serve at once. Makes four servings.

Note: Mixture can be frozen. Remove from freezer 30 minutes before serving. Stir and spoon into glasses.

FRESHEST PEACH SPOONDRINK

One pint "Fresh" Frozen Peaches (recipe above)

Two eggs

One-half cup plain yogurt

Cinnamon or nutmeg

Remove frozen peach halves from container; thaw 15 minutes. Separate halves; cut into large chunks, reserving sugar syrup. Put eggs and yogurt into blender. With motor on high, gradually add peaches and syrup. Whirl smooth. Dust with spice. Serve with spoon. Makes about two large drinks.

FRESHEST PEACH TART

One package (eleven-ounce) pie crust mix

One pint "Fresh" Frozen Peaches (recipe above)

Six sugar cubes (optional)

Two tablespoons rum or brandy (optional)

Prepare pie crust mix as package directs; divide into six parts. Roll each part to five-inch circle. Fill circles into five-inch aluminum foil tart pans, crimping edges. Put a frozen peach half, cut side down plus a little of the sugar syrup in each pan. Bake in 400 degree oven 35 minutes or until crust is golden. If desired, dip sugar cubes in rum or brandy; then press into hot peach. Serve warm. Makes six servings.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

She Needs 'Teenage Lament'

Dear Ann Landers: About five years ago you printed a poem. I believe it was called "Teenage Lament." When I read it I was moved but I never dreamed I'd ever need it for my own teenager.

Well, now I do — desperately. Will you please hunt it up and run it again? Thank you very much. — Short Hill, N.J. Mother

Dear Mother: The poem was by Nancy Curtis and it produced an unexpected response from teenagers. All positive. I'm running it again for you and others who have asked for a repeat.

Teenage Lament, by Nancy Curtis

The new morality — and freedom

From classes — what a drag!

From Mom and Dad — always arguing.

From homework — senseless hours.

From discipline — useless.

From church — a bore.

From conformity — a hangup.

I'm my own woman now.

Made so by one decision.

One hour of love and pleasure.

Free now to look at my cheerleading sweater hanging in the closet.

My books and basketball schedule resting on the shelf.

My material for a prom formal — never made — as it sits amid the remnants.

Of the fabrics left over from my maternity tops.

My medals from band and choir, forsaken in the clutter of a jewelry box.

My friends passing by my window.

Laughing over the gossip column in the school paper.

And giggling over who will be the next to experience

The new morality — and freedom

For cleaning — what a drag!

For him — always arguing.

For ironing — senseless hours.

For dishes — useless.

For cooking — a bore.

For sex — a hangup.

Oh, God, if you are there,

Please let someone take this

ANN LANDERS

crying baby off my hands
And let my feet dance once more.
I am so old. And I was never young.

Who Speaks First?

Dear Ann Landers: You are going to settle this: When a man and a woman meet on the street, who should speak first? I say the woman — because if she chooses not to recognize the man, for whatever reason, it is her privilege. Am I right or wrong? — Vermont

Dear Vermont: When friends meet, the one who recognizes the other first should speak first. Warning: As we get older, the "if" eyes aren't what they used to be, so don't consider yourself snubbed if you aren't acknowledged. It could be that you weren't seen.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Like-New Room

REMODELED: This bedroom was remodeled after cracks developed in the painted walls. Beginning with a sky blue carpet, the baseboards were sanded and covered in oil-based light blue enamel. Rather than spackle the cracked plaster, the walls were papered and the panels framed in moldings painted to match the baseboards. Cane and wicker seating was salvaged from the attic, repaired and painted the same blue. A new acquisition was a wrapped cane and bentwood rocker. A motif of deer and pheasants in blue on white decorates the quilted bedspread. An extra yard of this pattern was padded and mounted as a headboard inset. The dust ruffle on the bed matches the wallpaper, which was also used as decorative panels on the corner screen.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I drink from 20 to 24 cups of coffee daily, take two aspirins daily and drink cokes. I eat cheese and bologna sandwiches and sometimes eggs.

My hands tremble and my head shakes a bit, too. A doctor diagnosed it as essential tremor and also said I had some heart involvement. I am 73 years old.

People tell me drinking that much coffee and not eating properly could be the cause of the tremor. I do not believe it. What do you say?

DEAR READER — Why not find out by stopping the coffee? I would think with the price of coffee these days that drinking 20 or more cups a day would give anyone the shakes.

Seriously, coffee contains caffeine, which is a brain stimulant. It has actions similar to "go pills" to prevent sleeping. That is why I sometimes refer to it as a liquid go pill. The amount of caffeine you are consuming is certainly enough to overstimulate your nervous system and cause the shakes. Whether or not it does in your case can easily be determined by stopping it.

If you do decide to stop I would suggest that you do so gradually or you are apt to have withdrawal symptoms, including headaches. May I suggest cutting down to four cups a day, spread over the day and then to two, one, and finally one, for the test. If you must have the taste of coffee, switch to one of the decaffeinated brands as a substitute as they will not have this effect on you. Cut out the colas and any tea you might be using also.

Your brief description of your diet is insufficient to say whether or not you are eating properly but if that is all you eat you need to have your doctor give you a balanced diet. Small amounts of bologna and processed cheese are all right if the rest of your diet does not contain much fat or cholesterol.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Cola, Cocoa to give you more information on caffeine containing drinks. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell me which oil has the least amount of cholesterol, soy bean, safflower, cottonseed, peanut or corn oil? I would like to make my own mayonnaise as the ready-made ones have too much salt in them. I have a tendency toward high blood pressure which is under control with medicines.

No need to tell me to reduce as I weigh 102 pounds — not bad for a 70-year old small framed lady of 5 feet 1.

DEAR READER — Not bad. I can't refrain from reminding you though that how much fat is under the skin is what is important, not what the scales say in pounds.

None of the oils you mentioned contain any cholesterol. Cholesterol is an animal product and is not found in vegetables. For what advantage it may have, safflower oil contains the least saturated fat and the most polyunsaturated fat of the oils you list. I suspect you could use any of these for your recipe. If you want to avoid cholesterol don't use egg yolks in its preparation. You might find a low salt preparation in the dietetic section of your grocery store.

Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10018.

Someone may arrange something for this coming year that appears small on the surface. Just keep in mind: Great oaks from little acorns grew.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Disappointment is likely today if you expect more than you're entitled to. Be satisfied with what you get, even though it may seem like small recompense. Find out more of what lies ahead for you by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Review today the things you're spending your money on. You can trim small, non-essential items and start saving more money away.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Achievements are possible today, but the world isn't going to make it easy for you just because you're a nice person. Ambition and effort are also required.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could meet someone today who you are attracted to, but it could be a no-no thing. Don't ask for built-in problems.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your reputation is one of your most priceless assets. Today someone may try to use something where you're blameless in an attempt to besmirch it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your male may be difficult to please today, mostly because he or she will be in a wishy-washy mood. Put your loved one back on course.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Release no work today unless you can proudly sign it. If you send out something shoddy it could cause you serious embarrassment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) It's important to put your best foot forward socially today. If you're a guest, leave before you wear out your welcome.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't do things from a sense of duty today, do them from your heart! — or you'll make people uncomfortable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Flattery will make you few points today. Be sincere, or don't speak up at all.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're a sensible spender when it comes to buying household goods and commodities today. However, you could blow the budget on a luxury item.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're dealing with a youngster today, you must be able to say "no" if it's for his or her own good. It's tough, but necessary.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
South was most unhappy when North jumped to four spades. He wished that he had merely rubid two or three clubs after North's one-heart response, but there was no use crying over spilled milk. He was stuck in four spades and had to make the best of it.

He won the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds, noted that there were 10 easy tricks at notrump and realized that since the game was match points he had best try to collect 11 tricks at spades.

He led a club to his ace at trick two and continued with the 10 spot. At this stage of the play West could have ruffed, cashed two diamonds and set the contract one trick since East would be sure of a spade trick. But West didn't know about that solid club suit. He discarded a diamond and now South was in control.

He led a third club and West ruffed — small. Dummy overruffed and South played king and ace of trumps. When both opponents followed, South just continued to play clubs. The defense did collect one trick with the queen of spades and one diamond trick at the end, since South had only one trump left in dummy to ruff diamonds with. By making five spades, South had turned a disaster into a triumph.

SERIOUS RIFT WITH U.S. LOOMS

Israelis Reject PLO In Peace Talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — In one of its most serious rifts with the United States over Middle East policy, Israel has flatly refused to accept the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) as a partner in peace talks.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin on Tuesday night firmly rejected U.S. efforts to bring the PLO into Mideast negotiations, reminding Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance that the PLO is committed to the Jewish state.

"That organization, the philosophy of which is based on an Arabic Mein Kampf, is no partner whatsoever and never will be a partner to hold any talks," Begin said, referring to Adolf Hitler's anti-Semitic treatise "Mein Kampf."

"Their aim is to destroy and annihilate our people," said Begin, speaking at a state dinner in Vance's honor. "Sincerely we are sensitive about it, and we are. It is logical to learn from experience."

In response, Vance urged the Israelis to take bold steps in the quest for peace although it may mean "uncertainty and change."

"We will never propose to you a course that will not include the means for assuring your security," he said. He did not mention the PLO by name.

President Carter at home and Vance and his aides abroad have said the PLO may be approaching a decision to accept U.N. Security Council Resolution 242, which recognizes Israel's right to exist within secure borders and calls for a negotiated Mideast settlement.

PLO spokesmen said Tuesday the organization continues to oppose Resolution 242 because it makes no mention of Palestinian rights, but they said it would welcome any changes recognizing the right of Palestinians to a state of their own.

Vance said earlier this week that PLO acceptance of the U.N. resolution would in his judgment "revoke" the PLO charter, which now leaves no room for the existence of Israel as a Jewish state.

Carter told reporters in Plains, Ga. this week that such a move might "open an avenue" for PLO participation at a reconvened Geneva Mideast peace conference.

Despite the clear policy differences, Begin cryptically said in his speech Tuesday night that Vance "can already note a very serious, indeed great achievement" in his Mideast mission, which has also taken him to Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Begin did not elaborate, but Israeli officials indicated that Vance may have made some unannounced progress in moving the Israelis and Arabs closer to the peace table.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, driving home his country's hardline position on the PLO, said Tuesday that even if the organization accepts Resolution 242, "it will not mean that we accept the PLO as a partner for negotiations for peace."

"We hope we shall have the support of the United States for our basic positions," he told reporters after the first round of talks with Vance. "If not, we shall have to take care of ourselves."

Hero Ducks Publicity

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A man who pulled a 2-year-old girl from a car in eight feet of water rushed away before the girl's mother could thank him because he was a prison parolee and didn't want the publicity. Officials said the unidentified man was walking along Lake Linton Monday when he saw the car carrying Theresa Ortiz plunge into the water.

The girl's mother, Enylou, 22, told police she left the car running while she went to get water for the battery. The child apparently put the car in gear and it rolled off the bank and sank into the water.

Pollution Suit Has Court's Blessing

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Detroit homeowners' class action suit seeking more than $2 million in damages from four industrial air polluters can proceed with a Michigan court's blessing.

But an attorney representing one of the firms said Tuesday's Court of Appeals ruling would likely be appealed to the Supreme Court.

In its 2-1 decision, the appeals court rejected the companies' arguments that the suit, brought by a neighborhood surrounded by the factories, be dismissed or split into smaller suits.

The companies said the case would be too complex and unwieldy to try in court and would confuse the jury. They pointed out that the 46 homeowners had suffered from the pollution in different ways and lived in the neighborhood for different lengths of time.

But, said the court, "Pundamental need not court trial. We are confident that with patience and the use of... administrative evidence, an attentive jury will be able to glean the necessary facts."

The suit was filed in 1972 by the Oakland-Humansville Association, Inc., representing residents of an eight-block area in a downtown Detroit that borders on the Rouge River.

Named in the suit were the Ford Motor Co.'s Rouge complex, Marathon Oil Co.'s petroleum refinery, the Edward Levy Co. line processing plant, and the International Salt Co., which processes and stores salt extracted from its Detroit mine.

The homeowners alleged the companies have simultaneously emitted noxious fumes, gases and particulate matter that regularly befoul the air, damage their property and endanger the health of some.

Homeowners complained the emissions caused asthma, corrosion and dust damage to various things, including roofs, automobiles, swimming pools, furniture and plants.

Some complained of chimney cracks, sagging doors and wall cracks they alleged were caused by vibrations from the factories. They sought injunctions to prevent the air pollution, punitive damages against the companies totaling $2.18 million, and other damages for the nuisance the pollution caused.

The companies argued the suit should be dismissed or segregated into individual suits by each homeowner against each company.

"They said a jury would be confused by the homeowners' varying complaints that it couldn't fairly divide the blame for the pollution among the four companies or accurately levy damages."

Witness Can't Escape From Gang's Revenge

GASTON, Ore. (AP) — Margo Compton was 25. She had toiled as a bar maid, a car hop, a waitress and a hostess in a San Francisco nude encounter parlor before she left California to try to make a good home for her young twin daughters.

Eight months ago she settled in rural Laurelwood near here. Instead of walking to work through San Francisco's seamy Tenderloin district, she drove several miles along a winding country road past orchards and corn fields to Hillsboro, where she worked for the state Children's Services Division.

But she couldn't escape. Mrs. Compton, 6-year-old daughters Sylvia and Sandra and a friend, Gary Sesar, 19, were shot execution-style in what investigators believe was a revenge killing because of her testimony against members of the Hells Angels motorcycle club in a pimping case.

"I'd say she was kind of living on the wild side and getting in with the wrong group and was interested in changing and getting out of there," said Capt. Harold Kieve of the Washington County sheriff's office, which is handling the quadruple murder.

Kieve and other investigators met Tuesday with law enforcement officers from San Francisco who said Mrs. Compton's testimony had helped convict three persons. She was scheduled to testify against a fourth next week.

"She had told authorities that when she tried to quit her job at the encounter parlor, the Hells Angels owners ordered her to keep working or pay $5,000. They took her children captive. Officers said the parlor was a front for a house of prostitution."

"She wanted to break away from that particular group and what they had her doing," Kieve said. "Laurelwood was a far cry from San Francisco and she had a regular job and seemed to be getting along well."

After officers retrieved her children, Mrs. Compton turned down a California offer to change her identity, Kieve said. He said Donald Sesar, father of the victim and a friend of Mrs. Compton, helped her move to Laurelwood, about 25 miles southwest of Portland.

She was divorced recently from Paul Compton, 27, of Vallejo, Calif., who tried unsuccessfully to get custody of the children on grounds that they were endangered by her involvement with the Hells Angels. He also claimed she had been arrested before on prostitution and narcotics charges.

Investigators found fresh humane leaves of bread on top of the stove in the modest one-story home on a gravel road she and Sesar's father rented from the Seventh-day Adventists.

The elder Sesar was in El Paso, Tex., when the shootings occurred last Sunday between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. His son, stationed with the Coast Guard in North Bend, Ore., was home recovering from a motorcycle accident.

There were two cups of coffee on the table in the living room where Mrs. Compton's and Gary Sesar's bodies were found. The girls were found face down on a bed where they probably had been napping. All had been shot in the head with a small-caliber gun.

"They don't even steal hubcaps there," said Kieve of Laurelwood. "It's a small area where everybody knows everybody, but strange as it seems on a Sunday afternoon in broad daylight no one appears to have seen anyone strange or any strange activity."

FOUND SLAIN: Margo Compton, 25, and her twin daughters, Sandra and Sylvia, were found shot to death along with Gary Sesar in a Laurelwood, Ore., home Sunday. Police say the killings could have been in retaliation for Mrs. Compton's recent testimony against members of the Hell's Angels motorcycle club. (AP Wirephoto)

Newspaper Strike Averted

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — Operations of the Macomb Daily were continuing today following a tentative agreement between the paper and the Newspaper Guild of Detroit Local 22. The pact was reached late Tuesday, five hours after a scheduled strike deadline. Negotiations continued past the deadline and there was no work stoppage. Details of the tentative agreement were not released pending a ratification vote, which officials said would be held within two weeks. The local has 83 members, including editorial and advertising personnel and some clerical workers.

U.S., Panama Near Canal Accord

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — After 13 years of hard bargaining, the United States and Panama appeared ready today to initial the basic principles of a new treaty turning the Panama Canal over to the Panamanians by the year 2000.

Negotiators for the two countries ended an all-night session early today, and informed sources on both sides said they were close to an agreement-in-principle, the first formal step toward a treaty.

The sources said the results of the latest negotiations would be announced today.

Panamanian Foreign Minister Nicolas Gonzalez

Revilla called the overnight talks "very, very positive." U.S. sources agreed.

The negotiators were said to be anxious to announce an accord before the expiration at midnight tonight of U.S. negotiator Sol Linowitz's appointment as a special ambassador. Linowitz and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker have headed the U.S. team.

The initialing of a conceptual agreement is expected to smooth the way toward a final draft treaty to replace the original 1903 pact, which gave the United States perpetual control of the 50-mile-long, U.S.-built waterway. American sources said the U.S. negotiators want to have a treaty ready for Congress when it returns in September from a month-long recess.

The treaty must be approved by both houses of Congress and by the Panamanian people in a referendum.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Tuesday that President Carter had sent messages to all members of the House and Senate asking them to wait until they see the final proposed treaty before taking a stand on it. Based on reports of the treaty's outline, some congressmen have already denounced it as damaging to U.S. interests. Sources close to the talks said the major obstacles to a final agreement were the issue of transferring property in the American-controlled Canal Zone and details of a U.S. aid package for Panama.

Panamanian negotiators said it has been decided that 70 percent of the Canal Zone lands and waters would become Panamanian immediately upon treaty ratification. The remainder would continue to be used by the United States in joint operation and defense of the canal until Panama takes full control at the end of the century.

Homes Burn; Firemen Man Picket Lines

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Angry residents grabbed garden hoses early today to stop a house fire and two garage fires from spreading through the rest of their neighborhood on the third day of a firemen's strike. "I wish the mayor was here to see this," said one of the hundreds of residents who congregated at the three blazes. Firemen stood on picket lines Tuesday and watched five buildings burn. At least eight buildings have burned, leaving as many as 13 families homeless, since the 375 firemen who are demanding higher wages and a shorter work week walked off their jobs early Monday.

Firemen, who have pledged to fight life-threatening fires, have a "phantom squad" responding to fire calls to ensure that lives are not in danger. But they aren't fighting fires.

Adding to troubles in this city of 241,000 persons was a threat late Tuesday of a strike by the city's 400 union policemen.

Fraternal Order of Police president Ronald Brandenburg said he expected "no reasonable response" to wage demands laid on the table for the first time Tuesday.

"We're going to vote on some kind of job action late tonight," Brandenburg said today.

Many residents complained about the strike, despite petitions circulated by firemen asking homeowners to support their position.

"What's the use?" asked a young woman. "Here my husband and I pay up (taxes) each year. Now, if the house catches fire, it'll just burn."

Montgomery County Common Pleas Court Judge William Wolff Jr. ordered the firemen back to work but then held off until Friday a hearing on the city's request that the strikers be held in contempt of court.

Fire Chief William Luckaday said he and 15 other supervisory personnel were too busy to respond to fire alarms and were "busy just coordinating getting other departments in here."

Luckaday has had limited success trying to get assistance from the 16 neighboring fire departments when an alarm is sounded.

Two departments, police said, refused to respond to the fires early today, and the civilian force at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base said it would take 15 minutes before giving an answer. The air base squad finally arrived to help neighbors fight the fires.

At one point Tuesday, youngsters hosed down a two-story apartment building and adjacent shop until the Wright-Patterson crew arrived. The children were credited with preventing the spread of the fire.

The firemen are demanding a cut in their work week from 52 to 50 hours, as well as an increase in the top pay scale from $14,123 to $14,500 a year, and an increase in base pay from $12,043 to $12,481.

The firefighters say their latest demands are half of their original request for a 6 per cent raise and a four-hour cut in their work week.

"The city of Dayton is forcing a continuation of this strike over seven cents an hour and two hours a week," said Timothy Barker, president of Local 136 of the International Firefighters Association.

Barker said his men will stay off their jobs until good-faith negotiations or binding arbitration are agreed to.

LA Okays Porn Shop Moratorium

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The city council has unanimously approved a moratorium on sex-oriented businesses being established within 500 feet of churches, schools, parks, playgrounds or other areas zoned for residential use.

The four-month ban, passed Tuesday with an urgency clause so it would take effect immediately, is designed to stop the proliferation of such shops in the Hollywood area while a permanent ordinance is drafted.

Mayor Tom Bradley has promised to sign the ordinance. "They are rushing to find store fronts and old theaters before the (permanent) ordinance can be adopted. This is what we are trying to stop," said Councilman Arthur Snyder.

"The ordinance is modeled after one adopted in Detroit and approved by the U.S. Supreme Court. Besides banning sex-oriented businesses near the parks and churches, it also bans any such businesses within 1,000 feet of each other.

Mexican Police Hunt American Escapees

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Two Americans — one a Detroit — who escaped from a Mexican prison may have already crossed the U.S. border, authorities believe.

A police search is continuing in the state of Chihuahua for John Marshall, 26, of Detroit, and Robert Fisher, 30, of Los Angeles. The pair dug a 45-foot tunnel under the prison wall and fled between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. Sunday morning, authorities said.

"They may have escaped across the border by now," prison director Fernando Hinojosa said. "In any case the search continues."

"We have started an investigation but up to now have found nothing to indicate how they managed to do that (tunnel out) undetected," he said.

Marshall, convicted of smuggling drugs into Mexico, had served two years of a six-year sentence. Fisher was being held for trial on similar charges.

Queen Arrives In Troubled North Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II arrived in war-torn Northern Ireland aboard the royal yacht Britannia today for a Jubilee visit and what may be the two most dangerous days of her life. The outlawed Irish Republican Army's radical Provisional wing has promised to unleash "a blitz to remember" and 32,000 police and troops were on full alert to guard the monarch and her family against any violence.

Michigan Woman Pleads Guilty

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 37-year-old Michigan woman who pleaded guilty to kidnapping charges faces a prison sentence of up to 25 years, but her attorney says she may be out in three.

In a surprise move, Rita Gibran of Utica entered a guilty plea Tuesday to charges stemming from her role in the holding of 11 hostages at a Cincinnati home for unwed mothers Feb. 11.

She agreed to cooperate and take the witness stand in the Sept. 8 trial of her former husband, Jesse Coulter.

Previously, she had contended Coulter coerced her to participate in the kidnapping. Coulter said after the 15-hour siege that the "Roots" television series inspired him to find his son, whom he and Miss Gibran put up for adoption at the Catherine Booth home 20 years ago.

Her attorney, Bernard J. Gilday Jr., said eight kidnapping charges were dropped. Miss Gibran still faces two possible sentences: 4-25 years for first-degree kidnapping and two 2-15 year terms for second-degree felonies; or 7-25 years for the first-degree felonies and two 5-15 year sentences for the second-degree felonies.

Gilday said he expects the first of the two possibilities, "and if that's the case, she'll probably be out in about three years."

He bases his optimism on a presentence investigation.

"I think the investigation will be very important if not critical to the sentencing. I think it's been found that she has been a thoroughly outstanding woman, with no police involvement at all."

Miss Gibran made the decision to change her original plea of innocent by reason of duress, Gilday said.

"Miss Gibran carefully and cautiously weighed the possibilities overnight and decided on her own," Gilday said, adding, "I certainly didn't voice any strong objections when she told me of her decision."

During pretrial proceedings, Gilday had argued that Miss Gibran was forced to accompany Coulter, also of Utica, to Cincinnati for the 15-hour siege, and that she went along with him to prevent violence.

John Franklin Fisher, one of the hostages, testified earlier that Coulter told Miss Gibran to watch him and kill him if he made a move.

"She put a blade to my neck and said, 'Don't make me kill you, honey, 'cause I will,'" Fisher said, adding that Miss Gibran held a shotgun on him at Coulter's request.

Coulter, who recently entered a plea of innocent by reason of insanity, is undergoing treatment at Lima State Hospital pending his trial.

Thousands of Irishmen, women and children lined the coastline and cheered when Britannia loomed out of a low mist and anchored off Belfast harbor. A 21-gun salute greeted the royal yacht.

Queen Elizabeth was accompanied by her husband, Prince Philip, and two youngest children, Prince Albert, 17, and Prince Edward, 13.

It was the first time the 51-year-old queen has been in an area where troops are engaged in active combat.

The IRA, which wants to unite predominantly Protestant Northern Ireland with the largely Catholic Irish Republic in the south, sees the Queen's visit, marking the 25th anniversary of her reign, as a reaffirmation of British rule over the province.

Five days of rioting, gun battles and terrorist acts by IRA sympathizers led up to the royal visit. On Tuesday, a 16-year-old Roman Catholic youth and a British soldier were shot dead.

Later in the day, a one-pound bomb exploded on the grounds of the new University of Ulster at Coleraine, where the Queen is scheduled to visit Thursday. There were no casualties or damage.

Northern Ireland's million strong Protestant majority, which wants to keep the province British, decorated its neighborhoods with festive bunting and Union Jacks to welcome the monarch.

The royal party will bypass Belfast during the Jubilee visit because the city has been the center of violence since 1969, when Northern Ireland's current round of sectarian warfare broke out.

When Elizabeth and Philip last toured Belfast, in 1966, a bottle was hurled at them and a concrete slab was dropped on the hood of their car. No one was injured in the incidents.

For this visit, the queen will be whisked by helicopter from the Britannia to events in other parts of the province. There will be no motorcades or "walkabouts" and all guests invited to garden parties or receptions she will attend have been carefully screened.

The queen's visit falls between two of the most inflammatory dates on the Northern Irish calendar.

Tuesday was the sixth anniversary of Britain's now-abandoned policy of internment without trial of suspected terrorists, and Friday, Aug. 12, is the day Protestants traditionally march through Londonderry to celebrate their religion's 300-year-old supremacy in the province.

It was this perennially provocative parade that helped touch off the sectarian violence in 1969.

Only Flying Trimotor Is Going West

OTTAWA, Kan. (AP) — The "Kansas Clipper," said to be the only Ford Trimotor plane in flying condition, was sold Tuesday to Seaside Airlines of Las Vegas, Nev.

The plane was owned by Chuck and Diane LeMaster, of Ottawa, Kan., for the past five years. The old plane had been flown by the couple to airshows in all parts of the country where it was exhibited and provided rides. Seaside Airlines provides tour flights around the Las Vegas and Grand Canyon area.

The trimotor along with another which the Las Vegas-based airline is having restored will be used for scenic flights up and down the Las Vegas strip.

The plane is the only one of six trimotors in existence and the only one in flying condition, LeMaster said. He said two others are in the Smithsonian Institution and the NASA Museum.

A Trimotor dubbed "The Tin Goose" crashed at Put-In-Bay, Ohio, earlier this summer. It had been used to ferry passengers between Sandusky and South Bass Island.

PR Man Remains In Suit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A California public relations man will remain in a libel suit filed by Dolie Cole, widow of the late president of General Motors Corp.

The Michigan Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday that state courts have jurisdiction over the man's involvement in the case.

The decision upheld a Wayne County Circuit Court ruling that Jay Bernstein of Hollywood must remain a defendant.

The ruling took the case closer to trial in circuit court, although attorneys for both sides said further motions might delay it again.

Mrs. Cole, widow of the late GM president Edward Cole, filed suit against syndicated columnist Joyce Haber and the Detroit News. Attorneys for Mrs. Cole charge that the columnist wrote two articles several years ago implying a relationship between Mrs. Cole and actor John Gavin.

Gavin and attorneys for Mrs. Cole demanded a retraction. Later, Detroit attorney Noel Gage filed libel suits against the columnist on behalf of both Mrs. Cole and her husband, who died in a plane crash earlier this year.

The suits charge Ms. Haber with false and malicious statements and ask for an unspecified amount of damages.

The Detroit News was listed as a defendant because it printed the column. The suits also name Bernstein as a defendant, charging he made slanderous statements to the columnist regarding Gavin and Mrs. Cole.

Bernstein argued that he should be dropped from the suit since the alleged conversation with Ms. Haber took place in California, and Michigan had no jurisdiction over nonresidents who had not entered the state.

Judge Horace Gilmore of the Wayne County Circuit Court denied the motion, and Bernstein appealed to the state appeals court.

The appeals court said Bernstein should have realized statements about a person connected to the auto industry

Grumman Seeks Ex-F14 Pilots As Teachers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Grumman Aircraft Corp. subcontractor is trying to recruit former Navy F14 pilots to teach Iranians how to fly the jet fighter, the newest plane in America's naval arsenal.

Iran has purchased 50 of the fighters from Grumman with deliveries spread through 1978.

But the ex-pilots may be difficult to find because the aircraft is only two years old and the ranks of former flyers are slim.

'Consumers Shouldn't Be Hurt' Decontrol Gasoline, FEA Urges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Administration, which wants to lift federal price controls on gasoline this fall, says consumers shouldn't be hurt by the move.

The FEA, declaring that the nation will have an ample supply of gasoline through 1979, said Tuesday it will hold a series of public hearings before submitting a decontrol program to Congress.

The agency said preliminary studies show its proposal to lift controls on Nov. 1 will "have no adverse price or supply effects, and that competition and market forces are adequate to protect consumers."

Congress, considering a Carter administration energy plan designed to cut consumption, would have 15 days to disapprove the decontrol plan.

Work on the President's energy plan continues today in the Senate Finance Committee despite a month-long congressional recess.

Spokesmen for General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are testifying against administration requests for tougher taxes on gas-guzzling automobiles.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, appealing to the committee Tuesday for higher gas-guzzling penalties, found a receptive audience.

Several senators have said in the hearings that they favor strengthening the conservation portion of Carter's energy plan.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., the committee chairman, has specifically mentioned the gas-guzzler levy as one way to prod Americans to use less gasoline. Neither Long nor Blumenthal was specific in discussing possible changes in the plan and the committee's staff said no change in any part of Carter's program has been drafted formally.

In his testimony, Blumenthal appealed for higher taxes, saying, "We need to keep the pressure on gas-guzzling automobiles until the national automobile stock is truly fuel-efficient."

The House, which approved the Carter energy plan last week, voted for an escalating table of taxes on fuel-inefficient automobiles. The tax would begin with a minimum levy of $330 on 1979-model cars that get less than 15 miles per gallon, and rise to a maximum of $3,856 for a 1985 car which gets less than 23.5 miles per gallon.

The tax, which would be paid by the buyers of new cars, would be levied on imports as well as Detroit's products. Experts estimate the tax would raise between $100 million and $170 million annually, money the House said should be applied to reducing the national debt.

Another Senate panel, the Energy Committee, voted last week to ban the sale of new 1980-model cars which get less than 16 miles per gallon. The standard would then increase by one mile per year so that by 1985 all new cars would be required to get at least 21 miles per gallon.

Carter originally had asked Congress to impose a stiffer set of taxes beginning with 1978 models; starting with $448 on a car getting less than 13 miles per gallon.

Blumenthal also asked the committee to extend a proposal coupling new taxes on crude oil with rebates for all Americans through 1983.

Public Debate Can Clear Issue--Crim

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Only a public debate will clear the air over who did the most to combat Michigan's PBB contamination problem — the Democratic-controlled state legislature, or the Republican administration of Gov. William Milliken. That's the challenge House Speaker Bobby Crim sent Milliken Tuesday as the two traded barbs for a second day over the PBB issue.

The latest bickering over who did what to protect the public from PBB began Monday, when Crim, a Davison Democrat, accused the Milliken administration of dragging its feet from the start.

Milliken responded by trotting out a long list of actions his administration has taken to curb the contamination and help farmers whose livestock were destroyed. He accused Crim of politicizing the issue. Crim, in turn on Tuesday, said Milliken was trying to "cloud the facts of an issue by charging politics."

Ethics Board Eyes Complaint

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Ethics Board is investigating a complaint that John Dempsey, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services, unjustly favored one employee over others.

The probe stemmed from a complaint filed in June by a state employee union that contended Dempsey granted $1,200 in tuition and one day off a week to an aide, Lois Matheson, so she could attend university classes.

The union, Local 1880 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said that was more than other employees could get for education.

The board will review the matter at its Sept. 7 meeting and may decide that Dempsey's action did not violate the state law on conflict of interest, the only subject over which the board has jurisdiction, a spokesman for the board said today.

If it decides there is no conflict of interest, it will dismiss the complaint and leave the whole question to the department, he said.

Dempsey granted the special payment and leave to Mrs. Matheson, 42, of Dearborn Heights, so she could attend classes offered in Michigan by Nova University, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., according to documents obtained by the union.

The payment occurred during a period when the welfare department had suspended tuition benefits for other employees because of a money shortage. Dempsey later restored these benefits.

"Dempsey's action clearly is in violation of the Michigan Ethics Code, which prohibits giving one employee preferential treatment over another," said Keith Bunker, a member of Local 1880's executive board.

Mrs. Matheson completed 14 months of a 30-month course toward a doctorate in public administration.

Nova has since returned half her tuition money to the state, Dempsey said.

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER
D.D.S.

Q. What do dentists mean by "Peer Review"? After I had a new denture made by my dentist a couple of months ago, I complained to him it didn't fit me. He told me he wouldn't do any more adjustments for me so I complained to the insurance company which pays for dental care through my employer. Now I have to appear before a Peer Review Committee of the dental society and I wonder if my dentist and I are going to have a big argument before some committee.

A. Perhaps you should have first presented your complaint to the dental society in your city, where their Patient Relations Committee would try to settle your problem with the dentist without asking you to appear in person.

In the majority of complaints against a dentist which are brought to their attention, the Patient Relations Committee appoints one of its members to speak with you. The dentist member usually calls both you and the dentist and tries to settle the matter by phone calls and very often, that is all that is necessary to solve the problem.

If a settlement of your complaint isn't possible by phone calls, you may be asked to appear before the Committee. They will no doubt examine you, listen to your story, then make some recommendation to the dentist and to you to solve your problem, and most often it will be solved quite promptly.

It is the aim of the Patient Relations Committee to bring the patient and the dentist together again, so that you will be cared for properly and promptly.

When the bill is being paid by an insurance company and the dentist does not accept the recommendations of a patient relations committee, the insurance carrier may request that a panel (group) of practicing dentists make recommendations to eliminate the problem.

Such a procedure is called "peer review" — because the members of the examining panel are peers (equals) of the dentist. A dentist who has treated a patient under an insurance plan can present his case before a "peer review committee" to obtain a fair, impartial judgment as to whether the quality or appropriateness of his treatment or care of the patient was proper.

We of the dental profession are in a period of dramatic and important changes in regard to payment of our fees. We recognize that when a third party steps into the picture of dental care — the "third party" being an insurance company, we must develop a program to assist everyone concerned, the patient, the dentist and the insurance company.

And that, as briefly as I can describe it, is Peer Review!

Area Chefs To Display Skills At LMC

A colorful panorama of professionally prepared food, carved ice, decorated cakes, and table settings will be on display at Lake Michigan College's first annual Culinary Arts exhibit, Wednesday, Aug. 24, in the LMC Student union.

The exhibit, which will open at 7 p.m. and close at 8 p.m., is sponsored by the LMC food service management program in cooperation with the Southwestern Michigan Chefs association, Michigan Restaurant association, and the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

According to Ben Standen, LMC dean of occupational studies, some 24 area firms and restaurants will participate in the exhibit displaying their most noted dishes and their cooking skills.

"One purpose of the exhibit is to show the public what amazing culinary talent is now on hand in the restaurants of this area," Standen said. "In addition, we want this display to reveal to young adults in general the careers available in food preparation and food service and what food service graduates can look forward to."

A special exhibit by the "Chefs de Cuisine" of the Southwestern Michigan Chefs association will be on display, according to Standen, and sample snacks will be available for visitors to taste and test the culinary art of many of the area restaurants.

The exhibit, which will be open to the public free of charge, has been arranged by a committee of LMC food service students and advisers including: Charles Selby, student from Benton Harbor, chairman; Judith Fisher, student from Berrien Center; James Graddock, senior assistant manager, Win Shuler's restaurant; Wayne Shipman, Berrien county health department; Olva Martin, LMC food service management instructor; Roger Parrish, Atlas Restaurant Supply Co.; Andy Levine, Ramada Inn; and Dean Standen.

Exhibitors will include: Whirlpool corporation, Gordon Food Service, Ramada Inn, Win Shuler's restaurant, Tosi's restaurant, Shipbad's West, Sir Quin-Mar restaurant at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, Berrien Hills Country club, Pebble Wood Country club, C&S Catering Co., and McGrath's restaurant.

Others are: Franky's restaurant, Berrien county health department, Atlas Restaurant Supply Co.; Taylor Rental Center, Point O' Woods Golf and Country club, The Brass Wok, Holly's Landing, Sabor Room, Timberline Inn, Selby's Catering Co., Flagship restaurant at the St. Joseph Holiday Inn, Captain's Table restaurant, and Canteen Company of Southwestern Michigan, Inc.

GALLUP Youth Survey

By GEORGE GALLUP
PRINCETON, N.J. — President Jimmy Carter wins the approval of 6 in 10 teenagers (62 per cent) nationwide for his performance in office, according to the latest Gallup Youth Survey.

Their rating of Carter's performance parallels almost exactly that of the adult population, as determined by a Gallup Poll conducted in June. It showed 61 per cent expressing approval.

The President wins high marks with America's teenage population for what they perceive to be his openness, candor, and honesty with the public.

"President Carter is trying to be one of the people rather than an inaccessible President," said a 17-year-old boy.

"His idea of giving people a chance to call him on the phone makes the presidency seem a lot more personal and human than it was during the previous administrations."

Some youths react favorably to the President in religious terms.

"I like the idea that President Jimmy Carter is a 'born again' Christian," said a 17-year-old girl, a high school senior. "It really gives me a lot of confidence in him as our country's leader. He comes across as a person with high moral values and a great sense of justice."

One young man, a 17-year-old high school senior, applauds Carter's candor, but has reservations.

"It really is cool how he, Carter, says honestly how he feels and thinks, but I think that this can get our country into trouble, too. He can't sacrifice diplomacy completely, especially where Russia is concerned."

His views are echoed by a high school sophomore who commented:

Following is the question asked:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Carter is handling his job as President?"

The results show boys and girls hold similar views. Little difference is found between the ratings given by young (13-15) teenagers and old (16-18) teenagers.

The results for teenagers are based on a representative sample of 1035 teenagers nationwide. They were interviewed by telephone during the period June 22 to July 6.

Utah Firm To Sell Hydrogen Autos

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A Utah firm has announced plans to market 100 hydrogen-powered cars next year, and its president predicts hydrogen will be available in service stations within a decade.

Roger Billings, president of Billings Energy Research Corp. of Provo, announced a three-year plan for development of the car.

Billings said the company will sell 10 converted Datsun B210s for $10,000 each this year and 100 at that price next year.

Five of this year's models have been ordered, he said. The firm has a multi-million-dollar facility near Provo, Utah, and owns patents on a hydrogen carburation and conversion system.

Billings said the cars will be equipped with a dashboard switch that can transfer from gasoline to hydrogen. For another $10,000, owners can buy an electrolyzer that will automatically recharge the hydrogen tank overnight, he said.

Dog Race Track Eyed In Berrien

In the community petition for such an election.

Sen. Nelson told some 20 people who attended the hearing he believes the legislature will approve the racing bill this fall and place it on the governor's desk for his signature. "I believe we have the votes," he said.

He estimated taxes on

BIGGER SHARE: George Behrends, New Buffalo, testified local units should get bigger share of dog racing revenue than provided in current bill if legislation passes.

Senators On Korean Gift List

BOSTON (AP) — The names of about 30 senators were on a South Korean list of some 100 congressional contacts picked out for gifts or cash payments, The Christian Science Monitor reported today.

Current investigations into the growing scandal of South Korean influence buying have focused mainly on Democratic congressmen, but sources close to the investigation told the Monitor that 40 per cent of the senators on the list were Republicans. Only a handful of House Republicans have been publicly linked to the South Koreans.

About a dozen of the senators mentioned have had "serious" involvement with the South Koreans, the Monitor said. According to the sources, they include some of the Senate's most powerful and best-known figures.

One of the senators targeted was Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., who is chairman of the Senate Ethics Committee, the story said.

Benton Man Is Injured In Tumble

A Benton township man was reported in "satisfactory" condition at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo after he was injured Friday in a sign-painting accident.

Borgess hospital officials said Frank Genovese Jr., 47, of 1281 Warren, was taken transferred out of the intensive care unit at the hospital.

His mother, Mrs. Frank Genovese Sr., and brother, John Genovese, both of 1281 Warren, said the accident occurred at about 2 p.m. Friday at JP Food and Beverage shop, 1733 West John Beers road, Stevensville. They said a sign rotated, knocking Genovese off a ladder.

Mrs. Genovese said her son sustained a fractured skull and double fracture of the jaw.

John Genovese said his brother is self-employed as a sign and house painter and was working at the time of the accident with a partner, Henry Christopher of Warwick terrace, Benton Harbor. Genovese said he was told that Christopher was on the ground, steadying the ladder, but was unable to hold it when the sign rotated. He said his brother reportedly fell 10 or 15 feet, hitting his head on a metal post.

He said that if people in a municipality vote to approve a dog track, then they should have one. However, the local municipality's share of the tax revenue on parimutuel betting should be greater than 15 per cent, he said.

Yesterday's hearing was the third of four to be held throughout the state, according to Nelson. Hearings have already been held in Detroit and South St. Marie and one is scheduled to be held near Saginaw.

parimutuel betting at dog tracks would raise $30 to $50 million a year. That money would be divided up with 15 per cent going to the municipalities where the dog tracks are located, 35 per cent to the state and 50 per cent to counties based on population.

He said 10 tracks would probably create about 4,000 additional jobs.

Five of Berrien county's local elected officials said in testimony yesterday a dog racing track would be a healthy shot in the arm for the local economy.

The five officials favoring the race track bill were Cathryn J. Strk, supervisor of Benton township; Joann P. Fleck, treasurer of New Buffalo township; Robert Woodbridge, mayor of Niles; Michael Govats, a Benton Harbor city commissioner; and Richard L. Camp of Niles, a member of the Berrien county board of commissioners.

"I'm almost certain in my mind that if it (a dog track) were put to a vote in Benton Harbor, it would carry no less than three to one for it," Govats said.

He said a dog track would help the city along way on the road to economic recovery. "We want to turn the city around," he said. "We don't want to be a burden, we want to stand on our own two feet."

He said the Benton Harbor unemployment rate is currently about 26 per cent.

Mrs. Fleck voiced a similar sentiment. "We (New Buffalo township) are a dying community. We need some sort of new revenue into our area."

She said she believed New Buffalo residents were split 50-50 on the dog track issue.

Camp said a dog track would capture some of the out-of-state tourist dollars which presently are spent in northern Michigan.

Harvey Knapp of Kalamazoo said he was sent to the hearing to reaffirm the Michigan AFL-CIO's support for the bill.

Testifying in opposition to the bill were Mrs. John Valantjeus and Robert C. Triplett, both of New Buffalo, and Rev. Arnold C. Bolin, of Benton Harbor.

Bolin said he opposed the bill on moral grounds. "Making something legal does not make it moral or ethical," he said. "I think there are a lot of people who feel this way."

Bolin is the executive director of the Berrien County Council of Churches which is made up of 43 congregations. He said he was speaking for himself and not on behalf of the council which he said has not yet taken a stand on the dog racing bill.

Bolin also is a Benton Harbor city commissioner.

The Council of Churches last year opposed a horse racing track that was to have been built in Three Oaks township on a 480-acre tract. The plan was dropped shortly after the Indiana legislature voted to override a governor's veto of a bill that would allow horse racing in that state.

Bolin said he was also unhappy with claims that revenue from dog racing would reduce the tax burden. He said that was promised with the state lottery and horse racing, but it never came about.

He said people are "fed up" with the promise that taxes will be eased with the creation of more gambling.

Mrs. Valantjeus and Triplett both said a dog track would have a detrimental effect on children and the residential areas of New Buffalo.

Triplett said the track would attract "a lower class of people" to New Buffalo.

Mrs. Valantjeus said she did not think the track would do much for the economy in New Buffalo, but it would place a heavy burden on the local government to provide additional fire and police protection as well as sewer and water.

"It would just be a terrible burden on the taxpayers of New Buffalo," she said.

George Behrends of New Buffalo said he was neither for or against the dog racing bill but he believed it should be amended to provide more revenue for local governments with dog tracks.

He said that if people in a municipality vote to approve a dog track, then they should have one. However, the local municipality's share of the tax revenue on parimutuel betting should be greater than 15 per cent, he said.

Yesterday's hearing was the third of four to be held throughout the state, according to Nelson. Hearings have already been held in Detroit and South St. Marie and one is scheduled to be held near Saginaw.

Sodus To Take Litter Action

SODUS — The Sodus township board voted last night to begin legal proceedings against a resident over alleged violations of township zoning code provisions on litter and debris on property.

According to township Clerk Virginia Palls, the action came after some five residents attended the meeting to register complaints. They told the board that the property of Louis Bell, Snyder road, was littered with junk and debris, she said.

Mrs. Palls said the board has also received numerous other complaints about the property. The township attorney was instructed to begin action, Mrs. Palls said.

In a related area, Herbert Trapp, housing inspector with the Berrien county health department, urged the board to adopt a uniform housing code. He said the code would facilitate action against undesirable buildings. The board took the matter under advisement.

In other action, the board approved a contract for snow removal around township offices. The contract with Case Landscaping, Inc., Eau Claire, calls for charges of $17.50 per hour. The contract was an increase over the $16 fee a year ago, Mrs. Palls said.

The Real Inspector Hound

WAUKOMIS, Okla. (AP) — He stalks the town by night. Residents don't know his name or where he comes from. He can strike at any time and retreat quickly into the darkness.

He's the undercover dog catcher.

Borrowing from the world of espionage to solve its canine woes, this town has hired a man whose identity is concealed from all but his employers.

The reason? Waukomis, a community of about 300 residents in north-central Oklahoma, has had trouble keeping dog catchers. One's life was threatened. City employees asked to fill the post have faced threats and abuse from neighbors.

The new dog catcher, in the spirit of a secret agent, volunteered.

"He called me up wanting to know what we're doing about the dog problem," said Mayor Joe Hampton, who is reluctant to discuss the situation for fear he'll lose the new recruit.

The new dog catcher works nights and weekends. His telephone number is unlisted and town officials will not reveal his name. Residents cannot call him with complaints. The only others who know who he is — the dogs — can't blow his cover. That's the way he likes it.

ARRESTED: William C. Sibert, an employee of the U.S. Department of Transportation, has been arrested in Las Vegas on embezzlement charges. Federal investigators say that he got the money by embezzling government funds, diverting federal grants for the Atlanta subway system to his own bank account. FBI agents said Sibert spent more than $800,000 on fancy cars, a house and a yacht. (AP Wirephoto)

State Sues 'Pyramid' Firm

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Minnesota firm described as a "typical pyramid operation" is being sued by the state for alleged illegal franchise peddling. The suit, filed this week in Ingham County Circuit Court, names 10 officers and agents of Locations Ltd. Inc. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said the suit seeks injunctions to stop the company from offering and selling unregistered franchises; violating antifraud provisions of Michigan law; offering and selling a pyramid or chain promotion; and selling a franchise without providing a prospectus or registering with the state. Kelley said the firm was a "typical pyramid operation" which uses "fantastic claims" and "unsubstantiated statements" to induce people to buy franchises. Among other things, Kelley charged, the firm made false statements about a product which supposedly cut gasoline consumption in cars.

He replaces Herbert Stutenberg, who resigned last year.

Bloodmobile Drivers Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Bloodmobile drivers for the American Red Cross have walked off their jobs in the Detroit area. The strike by 18 drivers forced the Red Cross to use substitutes to maintain the collection of 900 pints of blood a day for 84 area hospitals. Duane Johnson, executive director of the Southeast Michigan Red Cross chapter, said volunteers manned seven donor sites and eight bloodmobiles. Serious blood shortages might result without them, he said. Negotiations between the Red Cross and Teamsters Local 299 broke off Tuesday when bargainers failed to hammer out a new contract. Johnson said Local 299 demanded hourly wage increases of more than 60 per cent over current levels. The drivers man blood centers and carry blood from donor sites to the Red Cross center. Drivers who deliver the blood to hospitals are not affected by the strike.

YMCA Faces Race Charge

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The YMCA of Metropolitan Detroit has been charged with racial discrimination by the state Department of Civil Rights. The complaint was filed by C. Clifton Moore, a black resident of Oak Park who was fired from his job as executive director of the northeastern branch of the Detroit-area YMCA. The department said efforts at conciliation were not successful, and a public hearing will be held to consider evidence. It said if the charge is upheld, the YMCA could be required to reinstate Moore and pay him back wages.

Three Officers Arrested

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP) — An informant who said he was beaten by a policeman triggered a month-long investigation that has led to criminal charges against two officers and a constable. Royal Oak Township Public Safety Chief Ous Solomon has disclosed. The three men pleaded innocent at their arraignments in Oak Park District Court earlier this week. Solomon identified them as: Patrolman James Walker, a member of the police department for five years. He was charged with two counts of gross indecency between males, two counts of willful neglect of duty and one of sodomy. — Patrolman James Thomas, on the force two years, was charged with felonious assault. — Township Constable Ward Lewis Jr. was charged with gross indecency between males.

Court Orders Arbitration

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Court of Appeals has ordered binding arbitration to settle a St. Clair County dispute over a deputy sheriff who was fired after challenging his boss in an election. The court said St. Clair County Sheriff Norman Meharg did not have authority to revoke the appointment of a deputy, James Bruin, under the collective bargaining agreement covering the department. Bruin had challenged Meharg in the 1972 election but Meharg won re-election. Afterward, he told Bruin he would not be reappointed deputy during Meharg's second term. Bruin and Local 1518 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees filed suit in St. Clair County Circuit Court, seeking damages and either his reinstatement or arbitration on the dispute. The court ruled in Meharg's favor, but the Court of Appeals reversed the decision.

PBB Survey Funds Sought

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — Saying Michigan does not have the money to conduct a planned survey of the effects of PBB on humans, the state health director has gone to the federal government hat in hand. Dr. Maurice Reizen's poverty plea came in the telegram to Joseph Califano, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Reizen urged a meeting with federal officials to find the proper approach to the problem, including federal funding. "We can't wait for one year to elapse, as happened during our long-term PBB study application," Reizen said in the telegram. The state health director said if he didn't hear from Califano soon, he would ask Gov. William Milliken and House Speaker Bobby Cray to help convince the federal government to assist the state.

POLICE ROUNDUP Big Feast Stolen From Restaurant

Benton Harbor police said food items valued at a total of $87 were reported taken during a break-in at Sandy's restaurant, 356 Territorial road. The burglary was discovered Tuesday morning during a routine police patrol.

Restaurant owner Lewis Seawood, told police 20 pounds of fish, four pounds of shrimp, eight chickens, and three pork slabs were taken in the burglary.

Patrolman James Spalo said he discovered the break-in at 5:20 a.m. Spalo said a large brick had been thrown through a plywood window cover allowing the burglars to enter the restaurant.

Benton township police said Ernest Phillips, Jr., 18, of 202 Felton, avenue, Benton township, was arrested and charged with attempting to flee and elude police at 8:50 p.m. Tuesday after police chased a motorcycle.

According to Patrolman Robert Polmanter, he attempted to stop a motorcycle without license plates that was going west on East main street near Urbandale but the cyclist made a U-turn. Polmanter said he pursued the motorcycle into a field, drew his gun ordering the cyclist to stop and the man surrendered.

Benton township Patrolman Michael Koern and Kevin Krugh reported Tuesday Floyd Hardy, 22, of 439 Packard street, Benton Harbor, was booked at the county jail on charges of violating the controlled substance act, and carrying open intoxicants in an auto.

The officers said they stopped an auto at the intersection of Irving drive and Euclid avenue and seized a suspected one marijuana cigarette and a bottle of wine. They said Hardy was ticketed for improper license plates.

Cletus Rummel, 439 Waverly drive, Benton township, told police Tuesday a power mower valued at $150 was taken from his garage.

King Film Criticized

ATLANTA (AP) — An NBC television film about Martin Luther King Jr. portrays the slain civil rights leader as frightened and cowardly, some of King's associates have charged.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, former head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said on Tuesday that the author of the film, "King," scheduled for airing early next year in two three-hour segments, "at some point decided to remake history, to rewrite the (civil rights) movement."

that the vast majority of burglaries in the Twin Cities area are related to the use of intoxicants — primarily marijuana.

He said his suspicions are only reinforced when he talks with family members and friends of convicted burglars, police and even victims.

Marijuana also turns out to be frequently linked with violent crimes including murder, he said. In the case of violent

The "inordinately high correlation" between marijuana and crime deserves further study, he said.

August Gaining Title As Wet Month

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor

A relatively mild summer storm washed southwestern Michigan with one to one and a quarter inches of rain this morning, and August began to win a reputation as a moist month. It was the ninth out of the first 10 days of the month that precipitation has been recorded at the Sodus Experiment farm. Power was knocked out for about an hour in the Scottsdale and

Andrews university areas, but very little other damage was indicated.

The rain poured down before dawn, with very little accompanying wind. Much of the lightning was of the inter-cloud type that did not strike down to the ground. Philip Carl, district manager for Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., said that other than the outages in the Scottsdale and Andrews university localities there was only scattered power interruptions to individual customers.

Arnold Hafer, foreman for the Michigan State university experiment station in Sodus township, said the 1.26 inches of rain this morning sent the total precipitation there so far this month to 3.36 inches. He noted that he has measured at least some rain every day this month except for Aug. 1.

Herb Teichman, Eau Claire, grower-weather observer, said there was very little wind with the storm, compared with damaging winds that came with a rainstorm early Monday. He recorded 1.02 inches of rain this morning. Teichman, and a number of other growers, reported a considerable loss of ripening peaches and early apples which were blown to the ground in the Monday storm. Teichman said some 40 to 50 fruit trees were broken over by the Monday wind in his orchards.

Cassopolis Youth Grabs Fair Honors

CASSOPOLIS — Dennis Wooden, 18, swept top honors for the second straight year in the swine judging competition at the 126th annual Cass County Fair here Tuesday.

Wooden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wooden, route 5, Cassopolis, showed the grand champion and reserve champion market hogs, and the grand champion market pair. He also had the lightweight champion pair, and won senior showmanship and grand champion showmanship awards with his Hampshire hogs.

This is the third time that Wooden has shown the grand champion hog. Last year he also won the grand champion showmanship and senior showmanship awards.

This is the last year that Wooden, who has exhibited 10 years, will be able to show in the youth competition.

The reserve grand champion market pair of red hogs weighing 230 and 227 pounds, were exhibited by David Anderson, 17, who also won the medium weight championship award.

Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anderson, Jones.

Other swine division winners were Ty Purkhiser, 11, Cassopolis, medium weight champion; and his brother Lance, 12, heavyweight champion for market pair; Kevin Swartz, 14, Dowagiac, junior showmanship; Sandra Flanders, 10, Dowagiac, beginner showmanship; and Daphne Krager, 16, Dowagiac, rule-of-gain winner.

In the dairy competition, Judi Accoe, 11, who insisted upon exhibiting in spite of a broken leg, carried off top honors with her four-year-old Holstein cow.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Accoe, route 2, Dowagiac, Miss Accoe won the grand champion award in the youth and open classes, and the senior champion award in the youth class.

Reserve grand champion in the youth class and junior champion in the open class awards were won by Suzanne Edmund, 13, route 4, Cassopolis.

Sherril Accoe, 9, Judi's sister, won the reserve grand champion award in the open class, and junior championship in the open class, for her Holstein calf. Diane Van Tuyle, 18, Dowagiac, last year's grand champion winner, was named champion dairy showman with her Holstein cow.

Farm tractor pull winners were Don Evans, Berrien Springs, lightweight to 5,000 pounds; Eric Norris, Berrien Center, 6,001 to 8,000 pounds; and Duane Kirkdorfer, Edwardsburg, 8,001 to 10,000 pounds.

The tractor pull events started three hours late yesterday because of heavy morning rain.

and the superweight, giantweight and super giantweight classes were postponed until Saturday afternoon.

Attendance was a "little over" 3,000 Tuesday, according to fair officials, because of the rainy weather. On Monday, the fair set a new opening day attendance mark of 6,122.

Scheduled for today are the youth sheep show and judging, 9 a.m. and the beef exhibit and judging, 2 p.m.

Other events today include horse and pony trail, costume and reling classes, 8 a.m.; draft horse halter and hitch judging, 11 a.m.; harness racing, 1 p.m.; open sheep show and judging, 1 p.m.; and Death Riders motorcycle show, 8 p.m.

WOODEN'S WINNER: Dennis Wooden is seen with his grand champion market hog which led parade of champions for him at Cass county fair Tuesday. Wooden also got grand champion honors for market pair, lightweight pair, and showmanship. He also picked up senior showmanship win and reserve grand champion accolades for market hog. ## July Blood Drives Net 440 Pints In Berrien

The Berrien County Red Cross chapter collected 440 pints of blood in drives during the past month and has scheduled blood drives Aug. 17 and 18, according to Carol Green, blood coordinator.

The blood drives are scheduled at St. Paul's Lutheran church, Niles, from noon to 6 p.m., Aug. 17, and at the Michigan Bell office, Wall street, Benton Harbor, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Aug. 18.

The 440 pints of blood collected during the past month includes 106 pints at the Coloma township hall, 91 pints at the St. Joseph Catholic annex in Stevensville, 81 pints at the Berrien county courthouse, 81 at Brick Alley at Fairplain Plaza, 46 at the Congregational church in Benton Harbor, and 35 pints at the Second Baptist church in Benton Harbor.

Additions to the chapter's bloodmobile honor roll are:

Two-gallon donors — Todd Binz and Bruce Spiller, St. Joseph; Catherine P. Vissotski, Coloma, and Wayne Wickliffe, Burdota.

One-gallon donors — Myrtle Conklin, Henry Gleiss, Anna Haupt, Ruth Higbee, Rose McCourt, Wanda Slowick, Walter Slowick, and Nancy Strasburg, all of Benton Harbor; Rebecca Bucksaw and Beverly Hicks, St. Joseph; Jeffery Price, Coloma, and Virginia Dillanbeck, Watervliet.

BH Man Heads Indian Board

Philip Alexis of Benton Harbor was elected chairman of the Michigan Commission on Indian Affairs, a branch of the state Department of Management and Budget, according to James R. Hillman, commission director.

Alexis, 39, is the first Potawatomi to serve as chairman since the commission was formed in 1966. Hillman said, adding that Alexis was elected by commission members by acclamation during the meeting at Sault Ste. Marie.

Alexis was first appointed to the commission by Gov. William Milliken in 1972. He has been vice chairman since 1974. The purpose of the eight-member commission is to help improve all areas of life for Indians over the state.

Alexis said that during his year as chairman, he hopes to phase out the commission's technical assistance role and concentrate on such problems as the Indian hunting and fishing controversy. Alexis said he hopes to work closely with state and federal agencies, the Legislature and Congress.

Alexis currently is chairman of the Title IV Indian Education Act for Benton Harbor Area schools and is a past treasurer of the Potawatomi nation. He is production manager for Modern Plastics Corp.

Alexis is a native of Watervliet and a 1957 graduate of Eau Claire high school, where he was class salutatorian.

Alexis and his wife, Melody live at 1432 Hurd street. They have three children.

petitions signed by some 201 people in favor of such an ordinance, Thomas said.

The ordinance has been under consideration because of complaints of loud parties and motorcycles and other disturbances around Van Auker lake and in other parts of the township as well, the clerk said.

Thomas said about 15 to 20 people at the meeting last night voiced objections to the ordinance. Many of the objectors were younger people who said they felt they were being singled out as the target of the ordinance, the clerk added.

In other action at the meeting, the board said it will announce at its next meeting how it intends to spend $9,938 it expects to receive in federal revenue sharing funds later this year.

New Peace Law For Bangor Twp.

BANGOR — The Bangor township board last night unanimously adopted a controversial breach of peace ordinance.

Roger Thomas, township clerk, said board action came after some 40 to 50 people debated the proposed ordinance.

The proposed ordinance is similar to one the board last month unanimously rejected. Board members at that time indicated they had received numerous objections to such an ordinance.

The ordinance prohibits noise, disturbances, trouble or improper diversions which "disturb the peace" of Bangor township residents.

Last night Douglas Mackinder, an attorney who lives in the township, presented

Road Board 'Recall' Aired In Van Buren

BY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A Van Buren county commissioner Tuesday suggested the possible "recall" of two county road commission members.

Commissioner Wesley Wickett, Decatur, said the action might be necessary because the road commission has not acted to correct an annual deficit.

The commissioner also claimed that some contractors dealing with the road commission "pad" their bids on construction projects because they know they'll have to wait one or two years for payment. He said the late payment was the result of the annual deficits.

Wickett's comments were made during a regular session of the county board of commissioners here.

The District Eight commissioner did not name the two road commission members he would consider recalling.

The three-member road commission is appointed by the county board for staggered terms. Members now are Bill Barnette, Robert Pearson and Harry Sarin.

Wickett said the road commission ended 1976 with a $765,160 deficit.

Road commission officials have said previously that the deficit primarily is the result of financing for road work.

Under the financing, the road commission pays initially for road work in various townships but then is to be reimbursed by the individual townships. Non-payment by townships creates the red ink situation, they have contended.

Because of the situation, Wickett said the road commission has been forced to borrow money to pay bills and then has the added interest costs to meet.

Wickett also contended that many work crews spend their time doing "practically nothing."

The commission agreed to seek a special meeting with the road commission to delve into the financial situation.

Commissioners Edwin Twitchell, South Haven, and George Fritz, Gobles, both said that while changes had to be made, they did not believe removing any of the present road commission members was the solution.

Fritz said the problems started years ago. He said the road commission has tried to remedy the situation by requiring townships to pay cash for road work and by not starting any major new construction.

Fritz added, however, that the efforts did not seem to have been enough.

In other areas, a proposal which would establish a Cass-Van Buren county group foster home for young delinquents was given a second chance.

The board agreed by voice vote to reconsider the proposal at its Aug. 21 meeting. The plan had been voted down by commissioners June 14, after several had cited general dissatisfaction with efforts to open a similar group youth home in Lawrence.

The Lawrence project has been stalled for almost a year because of fire code violations. Robert Vesey, juvenile court director, told commissioners yesterday that the facility will finally open later this month.

Under the plan for the other group home, Cass and Van Buren counties would each apply for $15,000 grants from the state Juvenile Justice Service commission. Vesey said the home would cost about $26,000 a year to operate and house up to six young people. The home, which would probably be located in the Dowagiac-Decatur area, would serve as a short-term residence for young people until placement in foster homes was made, according to Vesey.

The Lawrence facility, he said, is designed to house as many as six juveniles for up to nine months. A grant from the U.S. Office of Criminal Justice covers 90 per cent of the $53,000 annual budget, with the state and county each kicking in $1,054 in matching funds.

Fritz said that both homes could eventually realize substantial cost savings for the county. He noted that housing six juveniles at a state facility for a year could cost up to $87,000.

Implementation of the two county plan will require approval of both the Cass and Van Buren boards of commissioners.

Mrs. Helen Grand, director of nursing at the county health department, reported to the board that over 16,000 county residents have been tested for tuberculosis since last December. She said five active cases of the disease were discovered raising the county's current total to 65.

She said she feels the health department is now "on top of the problem" and that the county's high incidence of the disease should start declining.

She said that since the testing program began, over $58,000 has been spent for x-rays, medication, and other costs.

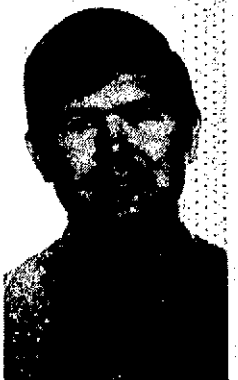

A Robert Earl, county extension service director, told the board that farmers must be licensed to use certain restricted pesticides after Oct. 21. He said his agency has helped about 450 farmers in the county obtain their licenses so far.

The board authorized the use of 10 CETA employees to assist townships in preparing assessment card files. The townships would be responsible for paying the worker's mileage and insurance.

Commissioner James Wellington announced that he had donated his share of a $300 raise granted all board members in January in the county chapter of the Michigan Townships association.

Wellington said the association will use the money for a suit before the Michigan Tax Tribunal over the division of non-voted millage in the county.

Wellington, who had voted against the raise, was active last year in a drive to limit the amount of taxes the state could collect.

MEDICAL DEGREE: Otis Allen, son of Mrs. Margaret Martin Paul of Watervliet, has received medical degree from Wayne State University's School of Medicine. Allen, 28, is 1966 Coloma high school graduate.

NEW GOBLES STORE: Superior Market Store, at south Gobles city limits, opened for business this month. Grocery store owned by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Rumery and their three sons was formerly located at corner of State and Main streets. New facility is 200 by 240 feet. # Managers To Be Honored

Banquet To Laud SJ Legion Heads

The builders of the highly successful St. Joseph Legion baseball program will be honored next Wednesday at a banquet kicking off the local Aug. 18-21 American Legion state baseball tournament.

Receiving special recognition at the St. Joseph Elks Club event will be the only managers the team has had in its 20 years — Bub Winters, John Tucker, Bob Crossman and Mike Wynn.

The tourney, which will be hosted by the Post 163 squad, will be a six-team, double elimination event on the Eaton

Park and Riverview Park diamonds. It marks the first time a state legion tournament has been held in the twin cities.

Winters was the first Post 163 manager in 1958 and compiled a 52-38 record in three seasons, including a district title in 1959. He now works with a die casting company in Chicago.

Tucker directed the club from 1961 through 68 and put together a 151-49 mark, including the state runnerup squad in 1965. Tucker, now retired in Florida, also posted district titles in 1961, 63, 64 and 68.

Crossman, the current Post

163 commander and baseball committee chairman, went 38-21 over the 1969 and 70 seasons, with a district crown in 70.

Wynn took over the squad in 1971 and has turned out a 196-118 record, including district titles in 1972 and 76.

St. Joseph Legion teams are 437-226 overall with just two losing seasons.

"There is a lot of tradition involved," declares Wynn, who was a pitcher on the first St. Joe Legion squad in 1951. "The state tournament is the culmination of it all."

Others to be honored include

Bernie Westerkamp, now of Marshall, and Lloyd Mollhagen Jr., who coached with Winters and Tucker, plus Bob Farnum, Tony Belski and Dr. Dave Stewart, who were Wynn's first coaches. Farnum was also a member of the first St. Joe Legion team.

Elmer Kirchhoff and Carl Flore, the general manager and manager, respectively, of the old Ausco team, will also be special guests. They are credited for playing big roles in getting the first St. Joseph little league program underway back in 1951.

The banquet will include about 120 players and coaches who will start play the next day, Thursday, Aug. 18. St. Joe's first game is slated for 8 p.m. Thursday at Riverview.

The other five teams in tournament will be determined in zone events slated this weekend at Coldwater, Hamtramck, Portland, Hancock and Cadillac. South Haven and Dowagiac will be representing southwestern Michigan in the Coldwater zone.

A souvenir program for the state tourney will be part of the $1 admission. Score sheets including rosters and pairings will also be available.

Out-of-town teams will be housed at Andrews University in Berrien Springs.

Dowagiac, South Haven

Playing In Zone Tourney

Dowagiac and South Haven Legion teams continue action in the American Legion tournament this weekend as the zone tourney gets underway on Friday, Aug. 12, in Coldwater.

Kalamazoo Legion Post 36, the team which beat St. Joseph Legion in the finals of the Great Lakes tournament, will face Dowagiac (29-10) at 4 p.m. South Haven (27-7) takes on Blissfield Post 325 (34-8) at 7:30 p.m. Blissfield is the defending Class C state baseball champion.

On Saturday, the losers will play at 1 p.m. and the winners at 4 p.m. Then the winner of the first game and loser of the second square off at 7:30 p.m.

The finals are slated for Sunday at 1 p.m. If a second game is needed, it will be played at 4 p.m.

All games will be contested on the Coldwater high school diamond.

Jarvis Gets Contract, $10,000 Fine

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — Ray Jarvis will have to pay about $10,000 in fines because he held out on his contract and stayed away from the Detroit Lions' training camp for 19 days.

But the wide receiver says he doesn't mind.

"I think I proved my point," Jarvis said Tuesday following his agreement to terms of a multi-year contract with the National Football League club.

"They fired me like they had to, but I'm not concerned about it. All I want to do is come back and play football — that's all I wanted to do from the beginning. I was never the negotiator."

Terms of the pact were not revealed. But Jarvis says it's "an agreement all of us can enjoy."

Jarvis' agent, Gary Walker, came to terms by telephone with Lion general manager Russ Thomas late Monday.

Thomas said the Lions were never close to trading the 26-year-old Jarvis, whom they acquired on waivers from the Buffalo Bills in 1974.

But they insist Jarvis must pay fines of $500 for each day of training missed since camp opened July 22 at Oakland University. Jarvis admitted he was getting a little worried Saturday when the Lions opened their exhibition season against Kansas City, and he wasn't there. He heard the game on the radio at his home in Southfield.

"I listened to the 'Star Spangled Banner' and that grabbed me," he said. "I wanted to be on the sideline. I really wanted to be there. Unfortunately, I couldn't."

The return of Jarvis, the Lions' most valuable player last year, meant the Lions have six wide receivers.

While the Lions were elated by the news of Jarvis' agreement, they were told Tuesday they had lost placekicker Benny Ricardo for the rest of the season.

The 23-year-old was to have surgery today on the separation of his left shoulder, which he injured in last Saturday's game.

"It will take him about 10 to 12 weeks just to heal," coach

WORKING UPHILL: Jimmy Connors, defending U.S. Clay Court champ, works hard to return service in Tuesday's round at the Indianapolis Racquet Club in Indianapolis against Henry Bunis of Cincinnati. Connors downed the unseeded Bunis, 6-2 and 6-3, in his opening match. Connors lost last week early in a New Hampshire tourney but he felt much better now and was on an upgrade. (AP Wirephoto)

12th Victory For Rozema

Tigers And Brewers Split Twin Bill

DETROIT (AP) — Butterflies didn't fluster Dave Rozema and a blister didn't deter Bill Travers.

Both young pitchers were winners Tuesday as the Detroit Tigers and Milwaukee Brewers split a two-night doubleheader.

Detroit won the opener, 4-2, behind the five-hit pitching of rookie right-hander Rozema, 12-4, who tossed his 13th complete game.

Milwaukee took the nightcap, 6-4, to hand Travers his first triumph since April 20. Steve Brye aided the cause by hitting two of the twinbill's six homers, while Jim Wohlford and Lenn Sakata drove in two runs each.

"I got plenty tired out there. I was hot and my arm is not in the greatest of shape," said Travers, who recently came off the disabled list after nearly undergoing an elbow operation.

"I threw mostly fastballs," he said. "I couldn't throw the curve because I had a blister on my finger and it broke open in the second inning. But I had no problems at all with my elbow."

Rozema, meanwhile, keeps ruffling along like someone headed for a Rookie of the Year award and possibly a 20-victory season.

"I still get nervous," Rozema said. "I get my butterflies. I like to get butterflies because it makes me feel like I've got to do it. Otherwise I might have a tendency to let up."

Detroit Manager Ralph Houk said the lanky control artist has learned to bear down in the late innings.

"Where he's gotten so much better is in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings," Houk said. "He's steady. Not overthrowing. Not trying to get the game over too quick."

Rusty Staub staked Rozema to a 1-0 lead against Jim Slaton in the first inning with a sacrifice fly. It followed a leadoff single by Ron LeFlore, a passed ball and a single by Tito Fuentes.

Cecil Cooper hit a two-out homer in the Milwaukee fourth, then doubled and scored on a two-out Sal Bando double in the seventh to give the Brewers a brief 2-1 lead.

But the Tigers ripped Slaton, 8-11, for three runs in the seventh. Jason Thompson opened with the 20th homer, Ben Ogilvie doubled, Tom Verzer hit a sacrifice fly and LeFlore doubled.

Rookie Jack Morris, 0-0, is scheduled to pitch tonight for the Tigers against Milwaukee's Jerry Augustine, 10-13.

Plangger's Hosting Tournament

Plangger's will be seeking to regain its hitting touch this weekend when the local team hosts the Michigan State AA Open softball tournament.

Plangger's, which got off to a fast start, has dropped 15 of its last 19 games to see its record dip to 46-31.

"The big thing is we're not hitting in the clutch," says manager Rich Plangger. "We just haven't had any timely hitting lately. If we get some key hits our chances will be pretty good this weekend. But it's a real rough field."

Plangger's will start action in the double-elimination affair Friday night at 8 when it plays Al's Sports of Midland. A game at 7:30 p.m. pits Flint AUL against Neal's Truck Parts of Grand Rapids. West Bay Honda of Saginaw rounds out the field.

Five games are scheduled for Saturday, starting at 1 p.m. The championship game will be Sunday at 1:30 p.m., with another game to follow if necessary.

Flint AUL, the tourney favorite, finished second in the state last year and won the national A runnerup tournament.

Plangger's has already beaten Midland once before this season and has won two of five games with Neal's. Both Plangger's and Neal's play in the Midland league.

Plangger's has added a new pitcher in Rod Dewey, who hurled for Neal's earlier this season. But ace Dick Plangger is expected to hurl all the games for Plangger's this weekend.

The winner of the tournament will advance directly in the national fast pitch tourney at Midland Sept. 9-17. The second and third place teams will gain spots in the Great Lakes regional in Saginaw Sept. 25.

This weekend's games will be played at Plangger's Park, located on Zollar Drive near Benton Township River Park.

Bargain Center Champ

Bargain Center wrapped up the women's Class B district softball championship Tuesday night the same way it has been winning all season — behind the pitching arm of Chani Smith.

Smith hurled a nifty four-hitter as Bargain Center ripped IMW 12-2 in complete a two-game sweep of the district at Plangger's Park. Brown's Construction outslug Buchanan Automotive 13-7 in a women's Class D game Tuesday.

Smith struck out seven and walked just two in the mound gem. And her teammates gave her plenty of batting support. Kim Doty slammed a home run and a single. Deb Schmid added a triple and a single and Smith herself collected a double and a single.

Jeanine Schabler collected three hits, including a double in Brown's victory. Pam Marshall added a triple and a single and Sue Severid a double and a single for the winners.

Douma Canfield and Pat Canfield each slammed out two hits for Buchanan Automotive.

Babe's battles Great Lakes at 7 p.m. today at Plangger's Park in a class D district game. Smitty's Marina faces Harding's at 8:30 p.m. in a class C game.

Softball Win To Miller's

Ben Kirshenbaum hit a homer and two singles to power Miller's Market over Harbor City Systems 7-6 in the finals of the winner's bracket in the YMCA South Branch softball tournament. Harry Lausman had three hits and Jim McLean a triple and two singles.

In a loser's bracket contest, Home Heating burned Chikheaven 12-9 with Pat Bentler collecting four hits and Tim Weber, Curt Lambrecht and Bill Barmann all three.

In women's league action, D&D Silkscreening topped Gast 12-2 with Offie Kiss slapping two hits and Rudi Motors edged Auto Club 5-4. Roti, Auto Club and D&D all tied for first in the final league standings.

REAL LOSERS

The Minnesota Vikings not only have lost all four Super Bowl games they have played in but have never been ahead in one.

PGA Starts Thursday

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Come drought or forest fire, the 59th Professional Golfers Association championship begins Thursday, with Tom Watson and Jack Nicklaus expected to wage another head-to-head duel like they did in the Masters and British Open tournaments.

However, there are dozens of relative unknowns in the field of 141 who will tee up on the picturesque, but parched, Pebble Beach course, a 8,900-yard, par 72 masterpiece on the Monterey Peninsula.

Nicklaus, from Abbott to Zander and including such as Bizik, Costin, Folkes, Hammer, Mengert, Mowry, Sumborsky and Wright—most of them the club pros who balance the budget and give the PGA national body the tinge of democracy and its independence from the PGA tour.

The current format of the championship includes the 39 champions of PGA sections throughout the country, in addition to the 25 low scorers and ties in the 1976 PGA Club Professional Championship.

Despite the formidable field, which also includes the likes of defending titlist Dave Stockton, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Lee Trevino, Ben Crenshaw, Johnny Miller, Tom Weiskopf and Hubert Green, most of the pre-tourney attention has focused on a possible repeat battle between Watson and Nicklaus.

And there are plenty of reasons for it.

Watson, a five-time winner this year, outgained Nicklaus in both the Masters and British Open.

Watson also won the Bing Crosby Pro-Am tournament in January, when two rounds were played at Pebble Beach.

Meanwhile, Nicklaus has won five tournaments at Pebble Beach, including the 1961 U.S. Amateur and the 1972 U.S. Open, both of which were played in the summer when drought conditions were prevalent.

He has not won a major tournament this year yet.

"I would like another matchup with Nicklaus," Watson said Tuesday before his first practice round. "But we'll have to wait until Sunday to see."

Watson said he doesn't believe in playing any particular person in a head-to-head duel. "I play the golf course," he said.

The 28-year-old Watson said he was playing the best golf of his young career, but admitted, "even if I beat Nicklaus on Sunday, I will still call him the 'Master'."

"I have to do it over 10 years," he continued. "He's been doing it for 17 years now. I don't know if I'll be on the tour that long."

Nicklaus said that for the first 63 holes he plays the golf course, then if it is even, it becomes match play.

Almost as much attention as a possible Watson-Nicklaus matchup has been garnered by the dry weather conditions in Northern California, which has caused a water rationing on the golf course.

Frank Gardi, tournament director, said, "Cosmetically, the golf course looks bad. It plays better than it looks."

He said officials have paid more attention to holes eight, nine, 10 and 18 because, he said, "you could hit a good drive and wind up in the ocean. The water we did have was used on the landing areas on these holes."

Sports Capsules

TENNIS

INDIANAPOLIS — The top seeded man, including defending champion Jimmy Connors, won first-round matches but two ranked women were upset in the $160,000 U.S. Clay Court tennis tournament.

Connors, the No. 1 men's player who is trying for his third Clay Court title in four years, easily defeated Henry Buntis 6-2, 6-3.

Janet Newberry, the No. 2 woman seed, was upset by Helle Virguth of Denmark 6-2, 6-3, and No. 5 Brigitte Cuypers, was stopped by Wendy Overton 6-2, 2-6, 6-2.

Third-ranked Harold Solomon advanced to the second round with a 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 victory over Dave Schneider of South Africa, and No. 10 Zeljko Franulovic, a two-time Clay Court winner, whipped Anand Amritraj of India, 6-4, 6-4.

DUBLIN, Ohio — Top-seeded Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was in action against Pat Cramer of South Africa, leading 4-2 in the third set when heavy rains delayed play for the second day in a row in a $125,000 tennis classic at Moorfield Village.

In other matches, Chico Hagey of LaJolla, Calif., defeated Chilli Alvaro Fiollo 6-1, 7-6; Tom Gullikson of Oklahoma, Wis., beat South Africa's John Yull 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 and Dean Junkert of South Africa downed Colin Dowdswell of Rhodesia 6-4, 6-3.

BASEBALL

NEW YORK — First baseman Dan Meyer of the Seattle Mariners was named American League Player of the Week.

Meyer batted .326 for the Mariners last week with 10 hits in 19 at-bats. He drove in four runs, had a slugging percentage of .579 and stole three bases in three tries.

Caddying For Trevino Real Lark

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Herman Mitchell, 39, from Los Angeles via Little Rock, Ark., has what he thinks is the best job in the world.

He works day hours. He always is in the fresh air. His labor isn't strenuous—more like a leisurely stroll in the country.

And he only has to please one man, Lee Trevino, and that man probably is the easiest in the business to please.

Herman carries golf clubs for Trevino. This week, the PGA Championship is being played at famed Pebble Beach. Win or lose, it always is a lark.

"When I first started caddying for Lee on the tour last year,

I didn't think I was going to make it," Herman said. "He is such a funny character. I laughed so much I thought my sides would split."

Caddying for Trevino is like touring the nation's fairways with a moving road show.

"He is always loose," Mitchell said. "He talks and jokes all the way around the course. He is a born comedian and such a quick thinker. He never seems to get upset. He never has chewed me out."

"But make no mistake about it, that man can play this game. I have never caddied for anyone, or seen anyone, who could do more with a golf club. He has worked himself into shape again after that operation."

"He could win this tournament."

"Mitch" is a pillowy black man who chews on smelly cigars and espouses a corn-pone philosophy about the only trade he ever has known. He caddied eight years for Miller Barber and had a string of other well-known clients before inheriting Trevino's bag from a Los Angeles friend, Neal Harvey, who quit the tour.

Although his biggest tip—$7,000—came from Barber after the latter won first prize in the World Open in 1973, Mitch didn't whistle much while he worked.

"Barber was hard to caddy for," he said. "He put the whole game in your hands. You had to read all the greens and pull all the clubs. With Lee, it's different. All he asks is that you be on time, have the distances charted and hold the flagstick. He does the thinking and the playing."

Herman became Trevino's caddy shortly before the garrulous Mexican-American underwent an operation last November for a ruptured disc, a back ailment Trevino attributed to his bout with lightning in Chicago in the summer of 1975.

From 1968 until this misfortune, Trevino was the premier threat to Jack Nicklaus. He won 19 tour tournaments, including two U.S. Opens, two British Opens, the Mexican Open and the World Series of Golf.

Fairplain Captures Tourney Title

Fairplain shut out North Lincoln 7-0 Tuesday night to win the Little League A bracket title in the North Lincoln Boys Baseball Club's All-Star Tourney.

The loss gave North Lincoln second place in the seven-team bracket. Fairplain pitchers gave up just one hit in keying the drive in the title. Randy Emery and Jeff Rice both cracked solo homers for the winners in the sixth, but the win was sealed in the third when Fairplain struck for four runs. One came in on a walk with the bases loaded and three followed on a double. Mike Rosinski got the lone hit for North Lincoln. He was the losing pitcher. Jeff Hilliard was the winning hurler.

On tap in games tonight are four title games and one semifinal contest. The title games are both the Babe Ruth A and B brackets, the Little League B bracket and the Minor League. The semifinal is in Pony division competition.

In Babe Ruth, Blossomland meets Galien in the B Bracket at 6, while Buchanan and Lakeshore clash for A Bracket honors at 8:30. Both Galien and Lakeshore are undefeated in the double-elimination tourney and a second game with the same teams would be required if either or both lose.

In Little League B competition, it is undefeated Coloma facing once-defeated Lakeshore. A win for Coloma would clinch first place while a playoff would be needed if Lakeshore wins.

The title game in the Minor League pits undefeated Benton Harbor (1) against once-beaten Dowagiac.

The Pony League semifinal is between Dowagiac and Coloma at 8:30. The winner faces Benton Harbor for the title.

S. Haven's Legion Record Best

South Haven's Legion baseball team continues to set team records.

South Haven won its 12th straight game Tuesday night, beating Dowagiac 8-3 in the Blue-Gray playoffs at Riverview Park. The win upped South Haven's record to 28-7, the best in team history.

Defending champion St. Joe Legion will offer South Haven some stern opposition in tonight's 8 p.m. championship game at Riverview. St. Joe ousted Niles 6-1 in Tuesday's other semi-final game.

"Whoever wants it can have it," South Haven coach Jim McCloughan said. "The team that wants the ballgame the most will probably win it."

Paul Dulik picked up the victory against Dowagiac with relief help from Jody Haumersen. Dulik walked the first three batters in the sixth inning, but Haumersen came in to protect a 4-3 lead.

South Haven then broke the game open with four runs in the seventh. South Haven has now beaten Dowagiac four straight times.

Ken Cullum, Andy Olson and Aaron Strebeck each had two hits for the winners.

Ron Hollis pitched a three-hitter in St. Joe's victory. Hollis struck out eight and walked two in helping St. Joe up its record to 37-17.

St. Joe got one in the first on doubles by Pat Weber and Mike Collier and scored what proved to be the winning run in the third on a run-scoring single by Paul Knuth.

Herb Ross' two-run single keyed a three-run fifth which put the game away.

Clark's HR Keys South Haven Win

HARTFORD — Winning pitcher James Clark slugged a three-run homer Tuesday to give South Haven American an 8-7 win over Paw Paw in the Major League division of the Hartford Baseball Tournament.

In other action Tuesday, Benton Heights got by Brandywine 4-2 and Hartford outscored Lawrence 12-11 in the Major League division. Hagar eliminated Watervliet 3-2 in the Minor League.

Darrell Gibson belted a home run and Greg Collins, Tony Bisbee and Phil Shamer each had three hits in Hartford's victory. Skip Groth, Doug Trestrom and Gary Johnson collected three hits for the losers.

Cary Pender was the winning pitcher in Benton Heights' victory.

Hagar will battle Decatur at 8:30 tonight in a Minor League game. Brandywine takes on Hartford at 6 p.m. and Decatur faces South Haven American at 8 p.m. In Major League games. In the Pony League, Lawrence tackles Watervliet at 6 p.m.

Paw Paw Wins Tourney Game

BANGOR — Paw Paw scored six runs in the fifth inning to edge South Haven National 7-6 in the semifinal game of the Bangor Babe Ruth Tournament here.

Paw Paw, with one loss in the double-elimination tourney, will take on South Haven American at 6 p.m. tonight for the title.

Rick Ampey and Ken Springer each had two hits for the winners. Frank Stiglich drove in three runs, including two with a single in the decisive fifth inning.

Two Liz Taylor Movies Waiting For Release

Q: When are we going to see Liz Taylor in a movie? We keep reading that she's making them but are we right that the last two haven't even been released yet? — W.W., Manhattan.

A: Alas, you're right. "A Little Night Music" still has not gone into national release and Liz's last effort, "Winter Kills," is still without a distributor. But movie insiders say that Liz, playing a procurer for a Kennedy-like figure in "Winter Kills," does a marvelous job.

GARBO SPOKE: Manhattan florist Robert Christatos, who has known Greta Garbo casually for 25 years, saw her gazing into his shop window the other day. He came out to say hello but in the South Pacific, wants his neighbor Marlon Brando for the movie. Brando played Fletcher Christian 15 years ago in "Mutiny," a dismal and expensive flop. But Lean wants Brando to play Captain Bligh, the late Charles Laughton role, this time around. These days, Marlon likes to get a seven-figure fee for two or three weeks work but with a meticulous perfectionist like Lean there's no such thing as a quick job. Brando might be tempted since the film would be shot in Tahiti, close to his island hideaway.

NOT SO SHINY: Nothing but trouble with the stage musical "Shine It On." Rumors are that star Liza Minnelli will be replaced by Shirley MacLaine, for whom the show was originally written. More rumors that director Martin Scorsese will be replaced. And then still more rumors that Liza says she'll quit if Scorsese is replaced. And Scorsese is reported to have warned he'll quit if Liza is replaced.

HEARTS AND FLOWERS: We hear Barbara Walters has herself a new man. He's Dr. Sidney Harman, Under Secretary of Commerce and a wealthy Long Island industrialist. Barbara actually met Harman three years ago but at that time he was involved with someone she knew. Sidney used to date TV's Sue Cull until she dropped him. He's been telling friends for years that he wants to get married. Well, it's too soon to get excited yet.

Q: Do you think that Shelley Duvall will really give up her promising film career just to stay close to singer Paul Simon? C.T., Santa Monica, Calif.

A: Love was about to conquer all but then Shelley got an offer she couldn't refuse. She's going to London to star with Jack Nicholson in the next Stanley Kubrick opus, "The Shining." That's an assignment any actress would do just about anything for.

Q: Your item about that great director David Lean coming out of retirement to do his own version of "Moulin on the Beach" was fascinating. Who will play Fletcher Christian and Captain Bligh? — E.K., Raleigh, N.C.

A: Lean, who has been living

LIZ: No distributor in sight

PEOPLE

By Robin Adams Sloan

Garbo started to dart up Madison Ave. Christatos asked her to wait for a moment and she did. He went inside his shop and got her a bouquet of roses. "Thank you for waiting," he said. "You're welcome," said Garbo and, clutching the flowers, she dashed away. Garbo speaks so rarely in public it's worth mentioning.

THE EXPERT: How do the serious beer drinkers like their favorite beverage served? Well, those in the know in Washington say the world's greatest expert on beer drinking currently has to be White House press secretary Jody Powell. Jody produces from his refrigerator glass mugs that have been cooled with the beer in them at a temperature of 10 degrees Fahrenheit. That's how he and the other experts do it, explains Jody, and our source on the scene says it's good indeed.

JOHN P. ROCHE
A Word Envywise

For two months delegates of 35 nations who signed the 1975 Helsinki Accord have been sitting around Belgrade trying to agree on the agenda of a follow-up session, scheduled for October. The purpose of the October meeting is to evaluate the success of the various Helsinki provisions, and the closer it gets to a serious substantive review, the less Moscow likes the idea. "Basket I" creates no problems; it legitimized Soviet post-World War II conquests. "Basket II" is harmless, dealing with a number of technical matters of cooperation. But "Basket III," focusing on human rights, has the Politburo in a frenzy.

Some have suggested Brezhnev & Co. are irrational paranoids on the subject, but this is unjust. When it comes to human rights the Soviets are the targets of a conspiracy, one designed to expose the true nature of their totalitarian system. When Moscow agreed to Basket III at Helsinki, it seemed like a minor rhetorical trade-off for the moral imprimatur Basket I accorded their imperialism. Then the racket started: human rights groups popped up like mushrooms, demanding their rights under the Soviet constitution.

Then came the ideological equivalent of a nuclear bomb: President Carter's straightforward, vigorous advocacy of human rights and his letter to Andrei Sakharov. Carter's position took Moscow by surprise.

Meanwhile, against an ever-increasing chorus of protest inside the Soviet Union, its satellites, and from Eurocommunist leaders, the Soviet delegation to Belgrade was handed the task of burying future discussion of Basket III, that is, arranging an agenda for the full meeting which would "deep sit" the issue. The tactic which emerged is one I first saw the Stalinists employ in 1940: limit the October Conference to a brief span with absolute closure when the clock runs out, no matter how far the debate is gone.

In other words, if the conference is only going to last until a gullotine drops at a prearranged time, the Soviets and their friends can filibuster on Baskets I and II until automatic adjournment terminates the session.

In any rough parliamentary struggle it is essential to control two elements: first, the credentials committee; and, second, the agenda. At Helsinki we waived our rights on credentials with the result that Malta, Monaco, San Marino, and Andorra are in the play. Malta (which reportedly has been purchased by Libya) is a bit of a nuisance with its demand that the U.S. Sixth Fleet leave the Mediterranean, but the other micro-states are a credit to their postage stamps.

Now at Belgrade, the agenda is up for grabs with the Soviets filibustering for the right to filibuster, that is to put a time limit on the conference. Naturally, everybody else wants to go on a summer vacation, and Moscow figures that stonewalling will lead to concessions if only to shut down the talk-shop. Moreover, the perversion of human nature being what it is, other delegates get mad at the Americans for not capitulating, for stubborn intransigence.

But, to paraphrase Milton, they also serve who only sit and wait. Human rights is a grand abstraction, but if we are really going to shake the cage in October, Moscow must not control the agenda. Sit tight, delegates! Sit tight!

Rebuffs Andy Young

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Meldrim Thomson, an outspoken foe of United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young, has "respectfully" declined an invitation signed by Young to serve as vice chairman of a dinner in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Cass Asked To Fund Narcotic, Metro Crime Squads

CASSOPOLIS — The Cass county board of commissioners was asked Tuesday to assume funding of the sheriff's narcotic and metro crime squads.

Sheriff James Northrop made the request because federal funding is scheduled to end for both programs Sept. 30. Northrop said no new federal money is available for the narcotics work and only a nine-month extension may be available for the crime squad.

The sheriff estimated cost of keeping the programs for the rest of 1977 at $17,853 and at $79,172 in 1978. The metro unit has four officers and the narcotics squad three.

The commission voted to refer the matter to its operations committee.

In other areas, Commission Chairman Herman Saltz, Cassopolis, said Commissioner

Donald Foust, Edwardsburg, had resigned as chairman of the operations committee. He named Raymond Tutwiler, Dowagiac, as acting chairman.

The resignation came a month after Foust unsuccessfully attempted to gain board approval of splitting county funds between two banks to gain more interest return.

Ironically, the commission yesterday approved depositing

$892,000 in the First National Bank, Cassopolis, and $1,182,500 in the Michigan National Bank, Michiana, also in Cassopolis for 35 days. Interest at First National will be 5.51 per cent and at Michigan National 5.46 per cent.

Saltz named Wilbur Broseman, Marcellus, and Dean Buasler, Dowagiac, as a committee to check into an offer by kiddy-litter developer Ed Lowe to donate a building in Union to the county for a branch library. The building has been used as a branch since 1974 rent-free.

After a tour, Saltz called the building a "shambles." Tutwiler questioned liability in view of the condition.

The board referred to its safety and law enforcement committee a complaint from Neil Akin, M-42, Jefferson township, regarding the county animal control officer.

Akin alleged the officer, Robert Steele, would not come to his house on a Sunday after a dog attacked him. Akin claimed Steele told him to come to the control department's office and file a report the next day.

Also yesterday, the board approved seeking bids for remodeling the former county medical care building and for an addition to the county dog pound.

The remodeling is to cost not more than $25,000 and is to convert the building into health department office space. A new medical care center is currently under construction.

Work at the dog pound on Oak Grove street near Dowagiac is to involve a 16 by 32-foot addition and remodeling.

Mrs. Robert Bainbridge, Marcellus, was named to a five-year term on the county library board to succeed Mrs. Mary Hershey, whose term expires Aug. 31.

PROPOSED GIFT: Ed Lowe, president of Lowe's Inc., has offered to give this house in Union to Cass county for branch of county library. Members of county board of commissioners toured structure Tuesday during lunch recess and referred proposal to committee. (Staff photo)

Circuit Judge Dismisses Taxpayers' Suit In Cass

CASSOPOLIS — A taxpayers suit against the Cass county board of commissioners has been dismissed by the Cass circuit court.

Judge Robert Boyle ruled the circuit court had no jurisdiction in the suit brought by the LaGrange Township Taxpayer's association. Boyle, a St. Joseph county circuit court judge, was sitting in for Cass Circuit Judge James Hoff who disqualified himself from the case. The ruling was handed down Monday.

Boyle said the suit properly belonged before the state tax tribunal. Dowagiac Atty. Phillip Harrison, representing the taxpayer group argued that the court has the power to review any administrative agency actions.

The taxpayers contended that reassessments on LaGrange township properties were improperly made and that a large number of people were not given the opportunity to appeal the reassessments.

Besides the county board, others named in the taxpayer suit were Frank Nevins, former county tax equalization director, his assistant, Dean Critfield, the LaGrange township board and township board of review.

Assistant County Prosecutor Donald Moroz represented the county commissioners. The others were represented by Richard Lang, a Kalamazoo attorney.

No Alcohol In Bloodstream

DETROIT (AP) — There was no alcohol in the bloodstream of Carson McDowell when he was slain, according to a toxicology report from the Oakland County Medical Examiner's office.

McDowell, a 43-year-old assistant merchandising manager for General Motors Chevrolet Truck Division, was found dead last Thursday in a field in the Detroit suburb of Ferndale. His wife reported him missing Wednesday after he left the couple's West Bloomfield Township home for a GM sales meeting but never arrived. An autopsy disclosed that McDowell was tortured with razor blades and burning cigarettes and bled to death after an artery in his arm was slashed.

Intermediate Board Slates Budget Hearing

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien county intermediate school board will meet in special session tomorrow night to hold public hearings on the 1977-78 special education and general operating fund budgets.

The board at the same meeting is scheduled to act on three property transfer requests and select a name for the new developmental center being built to consolidate programs for mentally impaired children.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the Intermediate headquarters in Berrien Springs.

The general fund budget, already approved by districts comprising the Intermediate district, calls for expenditures of $715,272. The special education budget predicts expenditures of $4,323,527 during the next school year.

Constituent districts do not vote on the special education budget, but both budgets need approval by the Intermediate board. The board will hear comments from the public on both budgets beginning about 8:45 p.m.

Car, Bike Collide; Boy Hurt

Johnnie Phillips, 14, of 236 Charles street, Benton township, was treated at Mercy hospital and released Tuesday afternoon after the bicycle he was riding and an auto driven by David L. Hanner Jr., of 4150 Red Arrow highway, rural Benton Harbor, collided, Benton Harbor police said.

Patrolman Delmar Lange reported the 12:08 p.m. accident occurred at the intersection of East Main street and Hull. No tickets were issued, he said.

Marcellus Woman Injured

DOWAGIAC — Deborah J. Shelton, 26, route 1, Marcellus, was seriously injured early this morning when the auto she was driving flipped over on Marcellus highway just outside the city limits here in Wayne township.

She was reported in serious condition at Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo, with a skull fracture, facial fractures and lacerations.

Cass county sheriff's deputies said the woman was eastbound on Marcellus highway when she apparently failed to negotiate a curve about one-quarter mile southwest of Atwood road. Her auto flipped onto its side, police said. The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m., according to deputies.

She was initially taken to Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac, and then transferred to Bronson, police said.

MORE COAL FOR POWER New Burn Method Eyed

Indiana and Michigan Electric company and its parent firm, American Electric Power, announced Tuesday that they are proceeding with the next stage of a development project that could result in the greater use of coal for electric power generation while at the same time protecting the environment.

The project focuses on a coal-burning technique known as pressurized fluidized bed combustion (PFBC). AEP is collaborating in the development with two European manufacturers: STAL-LAVAL Turbin AB of Sweden and Babcock and Wilcox, Ltd., Britain's major supplier of utility boilers.

AEP Chairman and I&M President W.S. White, Jr. said that the PFBC process held great promise as an effective and economic alternative to the use of "scrubbers" for flue-gas desulfurization to meet air quality requirements. In the PFBC technique, coal is burned at high pressure in a bed of inert material such as limestone, which absorbs most of the coal's sulfur and leaves the waste gases virtually free of sulfur dioxide (SO<sub>2</sub>). Air heated in PFBC "combustors" is fed at high pressure to a large industrial gas turbine, which generates electricity.

The new stage, which resulted from a six-month feasibility study recently completed, will be the combustion testing of eastern Ohio high-sulfur coal in a PFBC pilot plant at Leatherhead, England, operated by the English National Coal board. Data from such testing would be used in the detailed engineering design stage of the project, which in turn would determine the cost estimate for the construction and operation of a PFBC combined-cycle demonstration plant in the United States.

The relatively high-sulfur eastern Ohio coal was selected for the Leatherhead testing because it is contemplated that the eventual demonstration facility, if built, would be in eastern Ohio. The location is the Tidd plant of Ohio Power company, an I&M sister utility, at Brilliant on the Ohio river. Tidd, built in the 1940s and housing two generating units totaling 210,000 kilowatts, had been placed in the status of deactivated reserve only last year.

End Assembly-Line Education, Detroit School Chief Urges

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit high school students, historically weak in reading and writing abilities, would be required to pass a proficiency test before they could graduate under a plan proposed by School Supt. Arthur Jefferson.

Calling for a reversal of the trend toward "assembly-line educational programs," Supt. Arthur Jefferson said Tuesday there has been a tendency to throw students out to cope with the world, regardless of whether they have a 12th grade or fourth grade reading level.

"We must reverse this trend by delivering educational programs which give students the skills and confidence necessary to successfully face the world of work," Jefferson said.

He said it was also necessary to improve test scores overall to give Detroit high school graduates a better chance to succeed in higher education.

The proficiency test, Jefferson said, could be developed during the 1978-79 school year, taking full effect in the 1979-80 school year.

Meanwhile, Jefferson also announced new guidelines to promote greater uniformity in the application of the school system's uniform code of student conduct, created under order of the U.S. District Court.

The code was adopted as part of Judge Robert DeMascio's 1975 desegregation plan for the schools.

The set of rules governing student behavior, rights and responsibilities was intended to insure that no student would arbitrarily be denied the right to an education.

Jefferson said there had been complaints that sections of the code were ambiguous. He added that the application of the code across all of Detroit's schools had been uneven.

The new rules spell out exactly how many prohibited acts will be permitted before the student is suspended.

Oronoko Allows Non-Conforming Property Use

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Oronoko township board last night adopted an ordinance amendment that allows for non-conforming use of property within the township.

Township Clerk Alex Miskiewicz said the amendment allows any existing business to remodel under a special use permit the township can issue. It goes into effect in 60 days, he said.

In other areas, Congressman Dave Stockman (R-St. Joseph) appeared before the board and introduced his local administrative assistant. The board commended the freshmen congressman for his "well organized communication and interest with his constituents."

The board also granted a lot split in the Kephart Woods subdivision to Hark and Harden, Berrien Springs contractors. Lot 275 will be split up between lots 274 and 276 for use as sites of multiple dwellings, Miskiewicz said.

The board voted to buy a used voting machine for $1,200; learned through a letter from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources that Oronoko Lakes on Snow road has been granted a license for 10 additional campsites; and approved spending $185 for blackout shades for the board's meeting room.

Young Berrien GOP Plans To Organize

The Berrien County Young Republicans will hold an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Berrien GOP headquarters at 783 East Napier avenue, Benton township, according to Mike Poluhanycz county Republican youth vice chairman. Poluhanycz said the meeting, open to anyone 18 to 25 years of age, is being held to organize young county Republicans. More information can be obtained by calling county Republican headquarters, he said.

Reward Offered For Information About Vandals

DECATUR — The Decatur township board last night offered a $400 reward for information leading to the successful prosecution of those who recently vandalized the township's Anderson cemetery. Township Supervisor Joseph Miller told the board that in the latest incident, a section of fencing around the cemetery was knocked down, 10 monuments were toppled and there were a number of beer cans strewn about the cemetery grounds.

In other areas, Miller appointed Trustee Stanley Rajzer and Treasurer James Abshagen to study the township ordinance that limits the number of people allowed to attend outdoor concerts and other similar events. The present ordinance limits to 1,000 the number of people allowed to attend any single concert or outdoor event, but township officials said they would like to see that number lowered.

That proposed ordinance amendment will come up at the township's September meeting, Miller said. The board also gave Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Brigham permission to operate an antique shop at their home on Keeler road about a mile north of Decatur village.

Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls through August 4 were:

HOUSE

Natural Gas — By a 199-227 vote, the House rejected a proposal to end federal regulation of sales of newly-discovered natural gas. The defeated amendment to the national energy bill would have deregulated new on-shore natural gas retroactive to April 20, 1977, deregulated new offshore natural gas starting April 20, 1982, and extended the Emergency Natural Gas Act of 1977 for three years.

Supporters of deregulating natural gas argued that only deregulation would give producers enough incentive to find and develop the necessary gas to avoid recurring shortages.

Opponents of deregulating natural gas argued that it would lead to as much as $56 billion in windfall profits to producers by 1985, spur inflation, hurt the gross national product and cost consumers $1,000 per household by 1985.

As finally passed by the House, federal controls on natural gas would be extended for the first time to gas sales within states where gas is produced. Federal price ceilings will increase significantly for sales of new gas but consumer prices will be lower than they would have been under deregulation.

Voting to deregulate natural gas prices: Brown (R), Stockman (R), Vander Jagt (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Voting not to deregulate natural gas: Blanchard (D), Conyers (D), Wright (Majority Leader).

Gasoline Tax — By a 82-339 vote, the House decisively defeated an amendment to the national energy bill which would have increased the tax on gasoline by 5 cents a gallon beginning January 1, 1979. The revenues would have been divided evenly between mass transportation and highway repairs.

Supporters of the gasoline tax increase argued it would discourage unnecessary gasoline consumption and provide funds for improved mass transit systems and necessary highway repairs.

Opponents argued that the gas tax would not reduce gasoline consumption but would impose a burden on many Americans, especially the poor and residents of southern and western states who have no alternative to automotive travel.

Voting for gasoline tax increase: Wright (Majority Leader).

Voting against gasoline tax: Blanchard (D), Brown (R), Conyers (D), Stockman (R), Vander Jagt (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

SENATE

Wetlands Management — The Senate rejected, 45-51, an amendment to a clean water bill that would have reduced the Army Corps of Engineers' jurisdiction over dredging and filling activities in the nation's waters and wetlands.

Supporters of the amendment claimed the Corps' authority at present is too broad and cumbersome and that states should have increased control of water resources management.

Opponents of the amendment, acknowledging that changes in the Corps' jurisdiction are needed, argued that the proposed amendment goes too far. Federal protection for swamps, marshes and other wetlands, which serve as breeding areas for fish and wildlife, remove pollutants from ground and surface water, and buffer the land from storm and flood waters is necessary to ensure comprehensive coverage of the nation's wetlands, they said.

The House has adopted an identical provision.

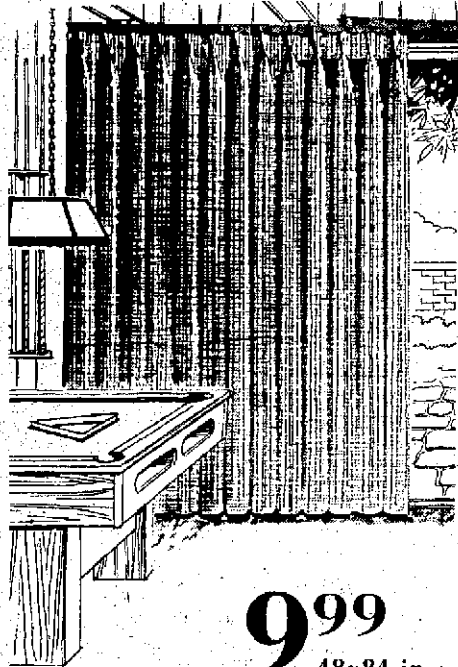

Voting to limit federal jurisdiction over wetlands: None.

Voting not to limit federal jurisdiction over wetlands: Griffin (R), Riegle (D).

Controllers Told To End Strike

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Parliament early today ordered Canada's striking air traffic controllers back to work. Normal air service, all but suspended for three days, was expected to resume later in the day.

The emergency back-to-work legislation was passed overwhelmingly in the Commons and later received rubber stamp approval from the largely powerless Senate.

The legislation also imposes a 7.4 per cent pay increase on the government-employed controllers, who wanted 12.5 per cent, and calls for individual fines of up to $100 a day if they refuse to return to work.

Leaders of the striking Canadian Air Traffic Control Association (CATCA) had said they would urge members to go back to their jobs if the bill was enacted.

"Air Canada ... could have aircraft shut by noon," a spokesman for the airlines' industry association said early today. "And there might be some going out bright and early, depending on local circumstances."

The legislation was passed in the House of Commons by a vote of 130 to 11. The ruling Liberals and the major opposition party, the Progressive Conservatives, voted for the measure. Ten members of the third strongest party, the left-leaning New Democrats, voted against it.

The strike, which began early Sunday, stranded and otherwise inconvenienced tens of thousands of Canadian air passengers and visitors, forced the layoff of at least 3,000 airline workers and others, backed up the mails and caused major delays in operations at some northern U.S. airports handling rerouted Canadian flights.

Air Canada, the government-owned airline, maintained a skeleton schedule connecting major Canadian cities by flying between airports at Burlington, Vt., Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Seattle. But the line had to reduce its normal daily schedule to about 20 flights from some 300.

Other, smaller lines managed to continue some service by using visual takeoff and landing procedures. An industry spokesman said the airlines may have lost between $5 million and $7 million in revenue.

Negotiations between CATCA and the Transport Ministry broke down last Thursday when the government refused to grant the controllers more than an 8 per cent pay increase.

The controllers demanded 4.6 per cent more for about half of their members, whose jobs are being reclassified upward. The government contended the additional hike would violate its own anti-inflation wage guidelines, which generally limit increases to 8 per cent. But the controllers argued that the reclassifications should be considered promotions.

The government says the 7.4 per cent increase imposed by the legislation amounts to 8 per cent with increments.

Under a contract that expired last Dec. 31, CATCA members received between $8,200 and $25,100 a year.

A special message to those persons who are named executor in the will of a "friend"

Administering an estate today can be a frightful obligation...certainly not an undertaking for the inexperienced.

Traditionally, the executor has faced scores of decisions in the normal course of an administration.

Now, the Tax Reform Act of 1976 adds New Responsibilities.

No longer is the cost basis of assets stepped-up to fair market value at death. New "Carry-over Basis" rules for estate assets place increased responsibility on the executor. Now the executor must establish four separate values for each asset in the estate: the original cost; value on December 31, 1976; if asset was acquired by decedent before then; value at date of death; and alternate valuation date value.

The carry-over tax basis for each asset must be furnished to the Treasury Department as well as the appropriate beneficiary.

It takes knowledge, experience and a lot of work to be an executor today.

When you update your estate plan, why not name us as your executor... maybe your "friend" should name us, too!

This message brought to you by the people who devote their full time to managing estates and trusts.

Allegan Sheriff Gets Biggest Share Of CETA Pie

ALLEGAN — Allegan County Sheriff Robert Schra overcame objections from some county commissioners yesterday to claim the biggest share of the federal CETA fund pie to set up expanded patrols in the county. The expanded patrol program is contingent on whether the county is granted CETA funds at the federal level, according to Russell Sill, county clerk. The commission, in a narrow 7 to 5 vote, allocated Schra $114,485 in expected CETA funds and county revenue sharing funds to set up the program.

The CETA funding would pay for nine more deputies and a clerk, with revenue sharing funds being used to buy the additional equipment needed, including two new patrol cars, with the municipalities involved sharing any remaining costs.

Voting against the CETA allocation for the expanded sheriff's patrols were Commissioners James Rolfe of Allegan; Walter Bray of Hamilton; Anthony Wykstra of Martin; Louis Ter Avest of Allegan; and Vernon Sill of Casco township.

In favor were Commissioners Robert Drew of Fennville; John Vogelzang of Holland; H. Kirke White Jr. of Hamilton; Leland Buck of Hopkins; Ralph Sysma of Wayland; Flora Moore of Otsego; and Arthur Popp of Plainwell.

Schra also told the board that he hopes the communities involved in the plan will help pay for two satellite stations. Fennville has already agreed to provide one such operational base. The second is to be located in the eastern half of the county.

The big loser in the scramble for CETA job slots and accompanying federal funds was the county's equalization department, which had asked for $217,750 for a crash program to set up a new photo index system for township tax assessors. It was allocated $103,255.

Buchanan Twp. OKs Tax Break

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan township board last night approved a township farmer's request for what would amount to a tax rebate on farm property taxes.

The board approved the request of E.R. Wesner under the two-year-old open space land act. The application must now go to the state land use office. In approving the request, the board stipulated that Wesner get approval from the U.S. Soil Conservation district office.

Under the open space act, farmland taxed higher than normal because of nearby land uses may apply for an adjustment. If state approval is granted, the farm owner is eligible for state income tax rebates for a 10-year period. The aim of the act is to let the land be taxed as farmland.

In other areas, Dr. Kenneth Jones, township supervisor, told the board he would investigate the possibility of using Buchanan city voting machines in upcoming elections. Clerk Donna Newsom said that the four precincts in the township are nearing the maximum number of voters allowed in the use of paper ballots. She said paper ballots may not be used if there are more than 400 registered voters in a precinct.

Mrs. Newsom said there are presently 1,377 registered voters in the township. She said that if the township wants to continue using paper ballots, a fifth precinct would have to be designated.

The board tabled action on a request for a contribution for the Buchanan area rocket football program. The program is for youngsters and the request came from Fred Klinke, director of the program.

Jones said that several residents had questioned the size limitation on signs in the township under the zoning ordinance. He said that the 144 square-inch limit applies only to businesses being operated from homes.

The prosecution request was made because a witness changed a statement.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Drops Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was down slightly today, as investors awaited more signs concerning federal monetary actions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks lost a fraction in the early going, while losers and gainers were about even on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said investors were leery of another possible tightening of the money supply by the Federal Reserve Board. The Fed recently tightened its credit policy, and actions Tuesday were interpreted by some analysts as foreshadowing a similar tightening in the days ahead.

Today's early prices included Bethlehem Steel, up 1/4 to 23 1/2; General Electric, down 1/4 to 53 1/2; General Motors, 1/2 higher at 66 1/2; and U.S. Steel, off 1/8 to 34 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average gave up a 2-point early gain to finish unchanged at 879.42.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a very slight margin in the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 19.90 million shares, up from Monday's 21 1/2-million low of 18.87 million.

The NYSE's composite index edged up .01 to 33.67.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .06 at 120.23.

Shortage Of Parts Delays '78s

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — A shortage of parts at the Windsor plant of Chrysler of Canada Ltd. which forced the layoff of more than 1,800 hourly workers has been blamed for a delay in the start of production of 1978 models.

A United Auto Workers Union official said Tuesday he suspected the parts shortage was the result of poor planning on the company's part.

A spokesman for Chrysler said Tuesday it was the plant's third abbreviated shift caused by a parts shortage in the past two days.

The spokesman insisted he could not say what parts were in short supply, adding he had no idea how long the shortage might continue.

Production of the 1978 models originally was scheduled to begin Aug. 2, but actually didn't get under way until Monday.

However, the company began sending workers home at 10:45 a.m. and there was a similar layoff on the Monday afternoon shift.

Frank La Sorda, president of Local 444 of the United Auto Workers, blamed poor company planning for the parts shortage.

He said it appeared that the company has failed to give its suppliers enough advance time to deliver parts, and that the company is going through its model changeover faster than parts can be supplied.

Permits for attic insulation, valued at $250 each, were issued to Adecoq Insulation Co., for four single-family dwellings owned by James Scruggs Sr. at 506 Broadway, 719 and 784 Columbus, and 1025 Pavane street.

A permit was issued to Janice Perry for the installation of a 3 by 7-foot entrance in a single-family dwelling she owns at 758 Monroe, $200.

The department also issued wrecking permits to Henry Jones, to demolish houses at 739 Lavette, 302 Pleasant and 366 Colby.

Permits for remodeling work were issued to Conrad King Roofing Co., on a single-family dwelling owned by Queen Ester Fields at 1282 Ogden avenue, $800; Brimley Roofing Co., on a single-family dwelling owned by Mrs. Claude Alikins, 1023 Superior street, $375; King and Smith Roofing Co., on a two-family dwelling owned by Harry Reynolds at 864 Territorial road, $340; and Perma Plastics, on Michigan Bearing Supply, 301 Pinecone street, $90.

Picket Line Still Up At Chrysler

TRENTON, Mich. (AP) — Despite a back-to-work order, picket lines were still up today in a wildcat strike by some 2,000 auto workers at Chrysler Corp.'s engine plant in this Detroit suburb.

More than 100 police officers in riot gear were summoned to the plant to keep peace on the picket lines Tuesday. That force was greatly reduced shortly after midnight today, but the area remained sealed off.

Company and union spokesmen agreed the walkout erupted over Chrysler's firing of one union steward and suspension of six others of United Auto Workers Union Local 372 Monday night.

Trenton Police Sgt. Ralph Raymond reported all was "quiet and under control" early today at the factory gates, where one picket was injured the first night when he hung onto a car driven by a worker who refused to join the walkout.

The strikers decided an order Tuesday by U.S. District Judge Philip Pratt to halt picketing and return to work.

A telegram urging the strikers to return to their jobs was signed by UAW Vice President Marc Stepp and Region 1A Director Robert Butte III. They said the walkout was "unauthorized and in violation of the international UAW constitution."

Robert Paulucci, the chief union steward who was fired Monday, told reporters the heat had reached 125 degrees in the plant on the day of the walkout.

"We're not animals," Paulucci said. "We couldn't take it."

Both sides agreed the walkout was a sequel one July 24 when the temperature hit a reported 130 in the plant foundry.

The company expressed some unhappiness with efforts of stewards to get the men back to work.

The Trenton plant, which has about 3,000 employees, produces six-cylinder and V8 engines for all Chrysler models.

Salaries of workers entered the plant this morning, but production lines were at a halt.

CO-CHAIRMEN: Mary and Patrick Hopman of Niles are co-chairmen of first ever Four Flags Area Apple Festival queen contest. Festival is scheduled for Sept. 22-25 and queen contest is to be held Sept. 19, according to husband and wife team who also own and operate two businesses in Niles. ## Apple Festival To Have Queen

NILES — For the first time in its four-year history, the Four Flags Area Apple Festival will include a queen contest.

Miss Apple Festival will reign over the festival activities here from Sept. 22-25. Jill Garraire, a publicity committee member for the festival, said the husband and wife team of Patrick and Mary Hopman will be the co-chairmen and sponsors of the pageant. The couple are owners of P&H Fine Jewelry and Natalie's Fashion Boutique, both in Niles.

Deadline for entering the contest is Aug. 31. Application forms may be obtained from either of the two businesses.

Date of the pageant has been set for Sept. 19.

To be eligible to enter the pageant, girls must be Michigan residents, between the ages of 16 and 19, single and never been married. Each girl is asked to name a sponsor, but there will be no financial obligation to the sponsor which may be a business, an industry or a civic group.

The queen will receive a diamond watch and a $100 gift certificate. Four runners-up will receive a ring each.

SHOW BUSINESS

Behind Scenes Of Star Wars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Star Wars" is coming to television — but only as a special about the making of the boxoffice smash. "Our special will offer glimpses of the film itself while taking the viewer behind the scenes — in footage shot while 'Star Wars' was in production," said Fred Silverman, president of ABC Entertainment. The one-hour special, being produced by 20th Century-Fox, will be seen on ABC at 8 p.m. EDT Friday, Sept. 16.

'Slow Dancing' Director

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Alvidsen, Academy Award-winning director of "Rocky," has been named to direct "Slow Dancing in the Big City." Paul Sorvino stars in the film, written by Barbra Grant, which tells of a newspaper columnist and the lead dancer of a modern dance company. Production will begin this fall on location in New York City.

Southern Black Sheriff

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lou Gossett will play a Southern black sheriff elected during the height of the civil rights movement in an NBC movie. The movie, "Lawman Without a Gun," will also be a pilot for a possible series starring Gossett, who is the villain in "The Deep" and was Fiddler in "Roots." The movie, to be filmed in Kentucky, is based on the life of Thomas E. Gilmore, who in the 1950s was the first black elected a sheriff in the South.

'Roots' Movie Sequel

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A major motion picture sequel to "Roots" is being planned, set in the post-Civil War era in Henning, Tenn. Academy Award-winning writer Edward Anhalt will do the screenplay, which will be based on material from Alex Haley's book and from additional material Haley is writing. Called "Roots: The Next Generation," it will continue the story from the television series of Chicken George and his son, Tom. The main story revolves around Tom, a freed slave, and an aristocratic white landowner, set against the turmoil of Reconstruction. After the theatrical release ABC will air another television continuation of the story of the Haley family.

Lassie To Return

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lassie, that indomitable canine of the movies and television, will return to the big screen with James Stewart. The new Lassie movie will be the first in 26 years, the last being "The Painted Hills" in 1951. Academy Award-winning composers Richard and Robert Sherman have written the original story and score, as well as a number of songs. Rudd Weatherwax is again providing Lassie, using a descendant of the original canine star.

Two-Hour 'Police Story'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Janssen will star in the first two-hour "Police Story" for NBC, called "The Watch Commander." Now in its fifth year, "Police Story" this season will be presented as a series of motion pictures. Robert Forster, Scott Brady and Scott Hylands will also star in the film, which tells of a police captain who must cope with the impact of crime on his own emotional stability and that of his men.
